PACKER REVEALS ST. LOUIS SECRETS IN BEEF INQUIRY

Independent Tells Conditions to Campbell Cummings, Investigator.

TO GET IMMUNITY

Man Who Tells Story Also Gives Names of Persons Who Can Prove Assertions.

ANOTHER CONFIRMS IT

Witness Not Connected With Stock Men Also Gives Facts to Inquisitor.

One independent packer has given to Attorney Campbell Cummings, special assistant to Attorney-General Major, valuable information to be used at the meat trust hearings and has been assured of imunity from prosecution, he told a Post-Dispatch reporter Friday. Another man not in the employ of any packer has given information and will return Friday afternoon to give details and names of witnesses.

Cummings, during his investigation since Jan. 29, with the aid of two assistants, has obtained the names of almost four hundred witnesses and the facts they can divulge. These names and facts have been turned over to Major to be used at the meat investigation to be held in St. Louis and East St. Louis. The hearings probably will be in April, after Mr. Major's return from Washington, and are expected to take a month.

The packer to whom Cummings promised the immunity bath in consideration of his testimony, gave details of the packing business and of agreements said to be maintained concerning the purchase and sale of meat, and gave the names of many witnesses by whom these facts can be proven, he says.

Will Grant Immunity.

Cummings will continue his investigation and collection of evidence until the date of the hearings. He has been empowered by the Attorney-General to grant immunity to voluntary witnesses who appear at this time.

The fact became known Thursday that Cummings had been appointed to examine witnesses here as an aid to the investigation being made by the Attorney-General at Jefferson City.

The district detailed to Mr. Cummings comprises the packing industries of St. Louis and East St. Louis. He says that whatever agreements are made, if any, are made between the packers of both sides of the river, and their interests are identical, as far as the fixing of prices are concerned.

Prices are Fixed.

Those who know of agreements which fix either the sale of live stock or the sale of dressed meats are invited by Mr. Cummins to come to his office in the Times Building and give the evidence and names of such witnesses as they know by whom the facts can be proven.

The packer who gave the testimony Thursday on the promise of immunity is a St. Louis man connected with an independent packing plant. His name will not be revealed by Mr. Cummings. The other voluntary witness, who is to return again Friday, will not be used at the hearing, but his evidence will be proved by others whose names he gave.

FIREMAN STOPS RUNAWAY HORSE THAT ENDANGERS PEDESTRIANS

Animal Was Dashing Along Sidewalk When Grabbed by Lieut. Steinmeyer.

Anthony Steinmeyer, a lieutenant in the Fire Department, stationed at Seventh and Morgan streets, stopped a runaway horse, at risk to himself, on the sidewalk at Grand and St. Louis avenues, Friday, and prevented it from smashing the window of Layton's drug store.

The horse was attached to a laundry wagon. It was left standing at Bacon street and St. Louis avenue and ran through the street to Grand and St. Louis avenues, and then took to the sidewalk, imperiling pedestrians.

WIRELESS SAVES 49 ON STEAMER IN MIDOCEAN

Brings Anchor Liner Caledonia to Rescue of Korea's Captain and Crew 1300 Miles From Cape Race.

NEW YORK, March 4.—The wireless once more averted a tragedy of the sea when it brought the Anchor Liner Caledonia to the assistance of the Steamer Korea, of the Russian East Asiatic Line, which was folundering in midocean last Tuesday.

The Caledonia, commanded by Commodore Walter Baxter, rescued Capt. Serpe, of the Korea, and his crew of forty-eight men.

By the time the Korea's crew had been relieved, the vessel had a heavy list to port and her sinking seemed to be only a question of a short time. Her seams were started by the pounding she received in a series of storms.

This brief announcement of the rescue and the sinking of the Corea came in a wireless to the Anchor Line's office today. At 3:20 p. m., March 1, latitude 52:51 north, longitude 28:19 west, came upon the Korea which had called for help. Took off Capt. Serpe and forty-eight of the crew before boat sank.

The Caledonia is due Monday from Glasgow. The brief, but comprehensive air message from Commodore Baxter, who commands the Anchor Line fleet, came as soon as the Caledonia got well within the wireless zone of New York.

The Korea formerly plied between Brooklyn and Libau, Russia. She was the biggest of the Russian East Asiatic Company's steamers and has brought thousands of immigrants to America. She was equipped with wireless and it is supposed the wireless operator still was retained when the Korea was transformed into a freighter as the character of her cargoes, iron and ore, made here trips long and perilous, owing to the chances of rough seas displacing the great weight.

When she began carrying the ore the Korea steamed between Philadelphia and Norwegian ports. She was a steel, screw steamer, built in 1889, with 6163 tonnage. She was 409 feet long, 49 feet wide and 19 feet deep.

It is presumed in the absence of details in Commodore Baxter's report that the Korea encountered heavy seas when half way across the Atlantic and that the great weight of iron ore which she carried was shifted. This list would swamp the vessel and send her to the bottom.

DEMENTED MAN ENTERS CHURCH DURING SERVICE

His Unusual Actions While Kneeling Near Priest Alarms Congregation.

While the Rev. Father James J. McCabe was conducting Lenten services at the Sacred Heart Church, Twenty-fifth and University streets, Thursday night, an unidentified man entered the church and approaching the altar rail knelt immediately behind the preist.

The congregation was momentarily alarmed as the strange actions of the man indicated that he was irresponsible.

Several parishioners left their seats and started for the vestibule of the church, where they found two policemen who proceeded to the altar and led the man away.

Father McCabe was not at the pastoral residence when a Post-Dispatch reporter called there Friday. His brother, Father Michael McCabe, rector of St. Michael's Church, denied a report that the man had attempted to use a revolver.

"My information is," said he, "that the incident was trivial. If the man had a weapon I do not know of it."

"DYNAMITE PLOT" ONLY PRANK OF KIRKWOOD BOYS

Village Marshal Declares Youngsters Are Responsible for Deafening Explosions.

Kirkwood, in this era of "puffs," has a band of press agents of its own, who advertise the suburb with dynamite.

This is the explanation given by W. L. Kinyon, Marshal of Kirkwood, of two mysterious dynamite explosions which occurred Thursday night. One happened at 8:30 p. m., under the United Railways bridge across the Missouri Pacific tracks at Clay avenue, Kirkwood. The other tore a hole in the earth near the boundary line of Tuxedo Park and Webster Groves, an hour later.

Both explosions were heard for more than three miles and shook all crockery and window panes of the suburb. As Kirkwood is a quiet town, many of its inhabitants were shaken in their beds by the detonations, and thought an earthquake had occurred. No damage was done in either case.

"There is a gang of idle youths in Kirkwood," said Kinyon, "who want to wake the town up. Nothing has happened for the last few months, and they are afraid Kirkwood is disappearing from the map. The dynamiters don't wish to do any harm, but merely to start something.

"I know who these boys are, and if I run across any of them I'll lock them up. They usually wait until I'm at the other end of the village before starting their pranks.

"I can't imagine where they got the dynamite, for none has been reported missing in the vicinity."

40% bigger than the 3 next best!

This means that the merchants of the city of St. Louis yesterday, Thursday, March 3d, bought 84 columns of advertising space in the POST-DISPATCH, while on the same day these St. Louis merchants bought only 60 columns in the Globe-Democrat, Republic and Times all added together.

In other words, the POST-DISPATCH yesterday, Thursday, carried 40% more of legitimate, bona-fide paid display advertising, of the St. Louis merchants only, than the Globe-Democrat, Republic and Times COMBINED.

These figures prove that the St. Louis merchants know the POST-DISPATCH to be worth 40 per cent more as an advertising medium than the Globe-Democrat, Republic and Times combined.

ARMISTICE OF 30 DAYS GIVEN IN ARBITRARY FIGHT

Shippers Unanimously Agree to Appoint a Committee to Treat With Roads.

TO IGNORE TERMINAL

Negotiations for Rate Readjustment Will Be on Individual Basis.

The Post-Dispatch plan of negotiating directly with the heads of the railroad proprietaries of the Terminal Association, in the campaign to abolish the bridge arbitrary, was adopted by a committee of shippers Friday at the Mercantile Club.

It was unanimously decided to call a meeting of the St. Louis shippers at 3:30 p. m. Wednesday at the Mercantile Club to appoint a committee of representative men to arrange a treaty with the railroad presidents for the readjustment of freight rates into the city and the abolishment of arbitrary. It was declared useless to negotiate with the Terminal itself, as it has come to be regarded as the creature of the railroads. The Terminal will, therefore, be ignored in the negotiations.

As eight of the presidents of eastern railroads entering St. Louis have signified their willingness, through the Post-Dispatch, to confer with a committee of St. Louis merchants concerning the adjustment of freight rates, it is believed that there will be little difficulty in arranging a conference in the near future.

Ten Months Armistice.

In the meantime, the committee recommends that an armistice of 10 months be declared with the Terminal, so that negotiations for the solution of the arbitrary may be conducted under a flag of truce.

The members of the committee, whose meeting lasted an hour, are H. W. Peters, C. W. Mansur, Forrest Ferguson, George W. Simmons, Charles A. Stix, Elias Michael, R. H. Stockton, Robert Holmes and Jackson Johnson.

The agreement of the committee to resort to arbitration is considered significant, for its personnel was supposed to represent the two extremes of opinion concerning the Terminal. Peters and Johnson were active and influential in defeating the Termnal's Ranken tract bill.

Simmons, on the contrary, engineered the memorial signed by business men urging the House of Delegates to vacate the Mill Creek Valley acres, and Stix was the first man to sign the memorial.

Hopes for Fair Legislation.

Jackson Johnson, chairman of the commmittee, says it is his hope that the shippers will be able, before the expiration of the proposed armistice, to obtain legislation which will be fair both to the city and to the railroads.

"It will be sought," he said, "to ignore the Terminal Association and deal directly with the railroads themselves.

"Though I am in favor of the abolition of the arbitrary, I suppose that both sides will have to make concessions to reach an agreement that will be mutually acceptable."

"At first blush," said Anderston, "I should say that if the Terminal violates the law it should be showed no more consideration than anyone else, especially when the fact of its guilt is established by juries of impartial business men.

Will Continue Filing Suits.

"But I do not wish to be a stumbling block. I see that Henry W. Peters signed the resolution urging a respite of penalties for the Terminal. I believe Mr. Peters is on the side of the people, and that his lead may be safely followed.

"Therefore, though I shall not cease filing suits against the Terminal, I shall not decide whether to push the suits or permit them to lie dormant until I confer with the judges and the Council committee. If we decide to cease prosecuting the Terminal for the time being, the suits filed now can be revived at the end of the 10-months' truce, as the statute of limitations does not begin to operate for a year in Police Court cases."

Anderson has won 24 suits against the Terminal for the unlawful blocking of streets with switching tracks without permission of the Municipal Assembly. Fines of from $100 to $500 have been imposed, making an aggregate of about $7000. As each day of occupation constitutes a new offense, the City Attorney has 1000 suits in preparation covering every day for the last year.

Resolutions urging a reprieve for the Terminal until Jan. 1, 1911, were adopted at a meeting of the shippers Thursday night at the St. Louis Club.

Councilman Schutz, a determined foe of the arbitrary, said Friday that he thought the action of the shippers was a movement in the right direction.

"The shippers' action will mean the solution of terminal difficulties," said

Mrs. J. J. Astor's Alimony Is $10,000,000 Down and an Extra $300,000 a Year

Final Decree Signed Without Comment and Settlement Made in Private.

DIVORCED LAST FALL

Colonel Away on His Yacht in the Tropics When the Suit Was Filed.

NEW YORK, March 4.—Mrs. Alva Willing Astor was today absolutely divorced from Col. John J. Astor. An interlocutory decree granted several months ago was confirmed by Justice Mills of the Supreme Court at White Plains after, according to authentic information, attorneys for both sides had agreed upon a lump settlement of $10,000,000 for Mrs. Astor and alimony of $300,000 a year.

What disposition the Court has made of the two Astor children still is in doubt. Papers in the case were returned to Mrs. Astor's counsel and he immediately boarded a train without making public their contents.

Final proceedings in the divorce suit of the wealthiest of New Yorkers was of a perfunctory nature. After a passing reference to the interlocutory degree, counsel for Mrs. Astor moved that the decree be confirmed and Attorney Lewis Cass Ledyard, for Col. Astor, made no objection.

Justice Mills signed the final decree and the papers in the case will be filed later with the County Clerk in Poughkeepsie. The motion of Mrs. Astor's counsel was made in open court and no private conference of the attorneys and the Judge preceded it.

Mrs. Astor brought suit in New York last October for an absolute decree of divorce. The suit was tried before a referee and the testimony was secret. Mrs. Astor charged her husband with statutory offenses. Witnesses gave such testimony as to make unnecessary Mrs. Astor's appearance before the referee.

Kept Deep Secret.

The secret proceedings before Referee Charles Young were the subject of unfavorable comment throughout the country. The action was called a travesty on justice by many leading jurists, who argued that the courts of the country should not perform their functions under a cloak obtained by the use of money.

Referee Young reported to Justice Mills and the interluctory decree was granted on Nov. 8, 1909. All papers in the referee's proceedings were carefully guarded. No claim for alimony was made in the petition, but even when the suit was filed it was rumored a $10,000,000 settlement already had been agreed upon.

When the hearings before Referee Young had ended, Mrs. Roberta Halsey Crown-Hill, arriving unexpectedly in New York from Paris, vehemently denied she was involved in Mrs. Astor's suit.

She denied that she had been summoned as a witness and declared she could throw no light on the differences of Col. Astor and his wife.

Merely Astor's Friend.

"I a co-respondent?" she exclaimed with a peal of laughter in reply to a question. "Absurd! I am merely a passing friend of Col. Astor." She further repudiated the stories that she had accompanied Col. Astor to Havana, to the Isle of Pines, to Europe and had made other tours with him as gossip in Gotham society had it.

When the decision in Mrs. Astor's suit before the referee was reached, Col. Astor was touring the West Indes in his yacht, the Nourmahal, with his son, William Vincent Astor, 17 yeasr old. After the decree was entered, Col. Astor's yacht was missing several days and, following a storm that had passed over the islands and wreckage was found, the Nourmahal was reported to have been wrecked and Col Astor, his son and a party of friends lost.

Wireless Kept Busy.

Members of the Astor family, and business and social associates immediately began a search for his yacht and for three days the wireless system between the southern coast of the United States and the stations throughout the Caribbean Sea, ashore and afloat, were kept busy.

The Astor yacht was finally found in an obscure port where it had put in to escape the storm.

Mrs. Astor, who was Miss Ava Lowle Willing, daughter of Edward S. Willing, and a descendant of families prominent in early American history, was born in Philadelphia. She was married Feb. 17, 1891. She has been called a typical American beauty.

Col. John Jacob Astor, great grandson of the founder of the famous Astor fortune, was born in Rhinebeck, N. Y., in 1864. He was graduated from Harvard in the class of 1888. Besides their son, the Astors have a young daughter, Muriel.

MODEL GAS BILL FIXES 40 AND 60 CENTS AS RATES

Joint Committee's Draft Specifies Natural and Artificial Supply.

Copies of a natural gas franchise prepared by the city authorities were placed in the hands of the St. Louis Gas, Light, Heat and Power Co. and the Rodgers syndicate for consideration Friday. These two syndicates have applied for a franhcise to pipe natural gas from Oklahoma to St. Louis.

The model franchise provides that the price of natural gas shall not be more than 40 cents, and that the company accepting the franchise shall file a bond of $250,000 to protect the city and shall post an additional $50,000 cash a a guarantee of its good faith.

Within six months after accepting the franchise, the company must prove to the city that it has a sufficient supply of gas for St. Louis, and must show contracts for laying pipe lines and building pumping stations.

The Laclede-Busch interests take the ground, according to Harry B. Hawes, that no franchise is needed by the Laclede company to supply natural gas in St. Louis. Councilman Schutz, arbiter of lighting legislation in the upper house, thinks otherwise.

The model bill is the work of a joint committee in which Schutz heads the Council representatives and Delegate Hildenbrandt those from the House.

It prescribes that the natural-artificial gas franchise shall be let to the highest bidder and requires a bond to guarantee fulfillment of the terms, one of which is that work must begin within six months from the approval of the franchise.

The bill will probably be passed at the next session of the Assembly, as there will hardly be time to pass it at the present session, which ends in April.

POLICEMEN SEEK THIEVES IN MRS. CASTLEMAN'S HOME

Two policemen who saw the front door of Mrs. George C. Castleman's Lindell boulevard residence open early Friday and investigated to see if a burglary had been committed were glad to find that no one had entered the premises. They were glad, and yet—

Mrs. Castleman is very liberal with policemen. Two years ago, after her home had been ransacked, policemen recovered a part of the loot for her and almost had heart failure when she gave them $500.

Mrs. Castleman has been away from her home, [illegible] Lindell boulevard, for the greater part of the winter. She is reputed to be one of the wealthiest women in St. Louis.

GENERAL STRIKE STARTS TONIGHT IN PHILADELPHIA

Unions Preparing to Walk Out 100,000 Strong to Aid Trolley Men.

By Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., March 4.—All hope of reaching an amicable settlement in the street car strike having been abandoned leaders of the labor unions devoted today to making preparations for the general walkout of organized workmen which goes into effect at midnight.

Up to early this afternoon, the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes have not received a reply to the proposition of Thursday, in which the men asked for arbitration under the act of 1833, but, as the act, it has been learned, was declared unconstitutional in Pittsburg last year, the carmen believe they know what the answer of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co. will be in case it does make a reply.

The directors of the company held a meeting today and its general counsel was in consultation with President Kruger, but nothing was given out as to whether the company would answer the carmen. The strikers requested an answer by noon.

Mayor Reyburn and William H. Carpenter, two of the City's representatives on the Traction board, attended the meeting of the directors Friday. Each admitted there was no change in the situation. There was great activity about the headquarters of the Central Labor Union and the offices of the Allied Building Trades Council, many local union leaders calling for instructions for the general strike.

The number of men that will obey the strike order cannot even be approximated at this time. The Unions claim an affiliated membership of 100,000, but there is a difference of opinion among some of the leaders as to the number of men that will go out. Director of Public Safety Henry Clay declares from investigation he has made he believes only 20,000 will respond to the leaders.

Director Clay says he is confident the Police Department can handle the situation if any trouble starts. The police force has been recruited up to six thousand men.

The city continues quiet and few cars are being attacked. The traction company claims that it has more than 1000 cars in operation today and that it is constantly increasing its working force.

The Post-Dispatch is the only evening newspaper in St. Louis that receives or publishes news gathered by the Associated Press.

GRAND JURY TO REPORT IN SWOPE CASE SATURDAY

Inquisitors Demand Tiresome Investigation Be Brought to Close.

WEALTH APPRAISED

Late Kansas City Philanthropist's Fortune Estimated to Be $3,500,000.

GERM EXPERT CALLED

Dr. E. L. Stewart Tells of Giving Hyde Typhoid Cultures.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 4.—The twelve men who have been hearing, behind the barred doors of the grand jury room, the hidden secrets and the peculiar circumstances that surrounded the death of Col. Thomas H. Swope will make their report tomorrow.

At noon today, only witnesses that already had been examined by the grand jury were being heard. This was done, so the prosecutor said, to check up the evidence; to make complete the full story of the fatality and sickness in the Swope home.

Over this report from the grand jury there is little speculation. Even the attorneys for Dr. B. Clark Hyde fear adverse action. Whether or not the jury will report on the case of Chrisman as well as Col. Swope is a matter of speculation.

Typhoid Culture Told of.

For more than a week all the witnesses examined have testified to the manner and circumstances of the death of Chrisman Swope. It is this that leads to the belief that a report may be made on this case.

A half dozen witnesses were subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury today. Dr. E. L. Stewart, who gave Dr. Hyde a typhoid culture, was examined by the grand jury this morning. If indictments are returned against Dr. Hyde, it will be largely upon his testimony.

Dr. Frank Hall, the pathologist, who helped hold the autopsy over Col. Swope's body, also was called into the grand jury room again this morning.

Virgil Conkling, county prosecutor, said today he would need several days of next week to examine all the witnesses he wanted to bring before the grand jury. However, it is understood that the jurymen, who have spent three weary weeks probing into the Swope mystery insisted upon ending their investigation tomorrow.

Only new evidence of the greatest importance will cause the grand jury to hold over another week.

Estate Valued at [illegible]

While the grand jury was busy winding up its investigation into the causes of Col. Swope's death, the executors of his estate were filing with the probate judge of Jackson County, the appraisement of the property which Mr. Swope owned in Missouri. This appraisement showed the estate to be valued at more than 3½ million dollars.

In the division of the property among the heirs, according to the terms of the will, Frances Swope Hyde, wife of Dr. Bennett Clark Hyde, who is charged with the murder of Col. Swope, received $236,000. The other children of Mrs. L. O. Swope of Independence, with whom Col. Swope lived during the closing years of his life, received $410,000.

The University of Missouri will receive $175,000 from the estate, representing the 5 per cent inheritance tax.

MR. POLICEMAN—KISS YOUR STAR GOOD-BY IF HEALY EVER GAVE YOUR SON CANDY

WHEN UNCLE JOE DANCES WE ALL PAY THE FIDDLER.

"What's the matter?" asked the turnkey as he saw the patrolman kissing his star good-by.

"I've been found out," was the reply. "I hoped I could live it down, but it's no use. Maroney has learned the whole terrible truth, and there's nothing left for me to do but to resign."

"What was it he found out?" persisted the turnkey.

"Once, when I was off duty," said the patrolman, choking a sob, "I was out walking with my family and met Johnny Healy, and I—I—"

"Yes, yes, what did you do?"

"I let him give my little boy a stick of candy."

The official forecast: Fair tonight and Saturday; moderate temperature; the minimum temperature tonight will be above freezing.

FUND FERRETS STRIKE A NEW LEAD TO LOOT

Maroney, Smith, McDonnell and Roskopf in Significant Conference.

FRESH CLEW GUARDED

Talk of Arrests Friday on Bench Warrants Is Current.

Following an hour's conference between Special Counsel Andrew C. Maroney, Chief of Detectives Smith, Inspector Richard McDonnell and Assistant Circuit Attorney Harry Rosskopf in Chief Smith's office at Police Headquarters Friday, the first-named three departed in an automobile with Detective William Ferle to commence the investigation of a new lead in the police relief looting scandal.

Maroney's open appearance in the case was the first since Monday evening, when he slid into oblivion and escaped interviewers. Both he and Assistant Circuit Attorney Rosskopf denied that the conference in Chief Smith's office was for the purpose of discussing new developments, but it is believed that much new evidence was produced, since Maroney, Smith and McDonnell came to headquarters armed with documents.

"There's nothing doing," was the reply of both Maroney and Rosskopf upon emerging from the chief's office, but the fact that the trio left the central district with a detective gave rise to rumors that arrests might follow during the day.

Bench Warrants Possible.

No indictments have been voted by the grand jury, which has been in session a week. Indictments would not be necessary for arrests, however, as the judge of the court which impaneled the jury might be requested by the jury to issue bench warrents, if the evidence at hand was sufficient to indicate that indictments could be voted subsequently.

Chief Smith called Friday for Maroney at his home, 5064 Cabanne avenue, and together they made a trip to the Magnolia Avenue Police Station. Later in the day they reappeared at police headquarters with Inspector McDonnell.

Maroney admitted to the Post-Dispatch Friday that he had obtained a confession, but refused to divulge the name of the person who detailed the "inside" workings of the Police Relief Association. Following the arrival of Maroney, Chief Smith and Inspector McDonnell at headquarters, the trio closeted themselves in Chief Smith's office to discuss matters pertaining to the investigation.

The grand jury inquiry was resumed in the Four Courts Friday at 2 p. m. Thursday six witnesses were heard. They were Michael Gannon of the Ninth District, a member of the 1909 Auditing Committee; Patrolman Thomas Degnan of Central District and John Staed, who had served as trustees and collectors; Patrolman Larry Walsh of the Newstead Avenue District, and Patrolmen William Wolf and Robert Dunbar of the Deer Street District.

Those summoned to testify before the grand jury Friday afternoon are: Patrolman Ted Dolan of the Carr Street Station; Detective Edward Schenk, of Headquarters, and Sergt. George Moloney, of the Page Boulevard District. The latter formerly was a member of the executive committee. Detective Schenk was a member of the 1909 auditing committee that reported the accounts of Former Secretary John M. Healy correct. Schenk denied he signed the report, declaring he refused to incribe his signature.

"AN AMERICAN CITIZEN" PRESENTED BY THYRSUS

An audience that crowded Cupples Hall to the doors last night witnessed the second presentation of Madeline Lucette Ryley's play, "An American Citizen," by Thyrsus, the dramatic club of Washington University, the first performance of which was given on Wednesday evening. The varsity players appearing in the cast were Misses Starbuck, Bernard, Hopkins, Quick and Perham, and Messrs. Sihler, Robb, Nance, Evans, Garrett and Dennison. Their work was distinctly clever, that of Miss Starbuck and Mr. Sihler being especially so, and a genuine success was scored.

The annual Thyrsus play, which this season is Marguerite Merington's "Captain Lettarblair," will be presented on Tuesday evening, March 29, at the Odeon.

SINGER QUITS IN A HUFF WHEN "EXTRAS" ARE HIRED

MRS. F. P. MAHONEY.

Mrs. Mahoney Thinks It Unfair to Enlarge the Pilgrim Church Choir for Easter and Resigns Forthwith.

Mrs. Frank P. Mahoney has resigned as soprano soloist in the choir of Pilgrim Congregational Church, because Organist Rodney Saylor employed extra singers for the Easter musical service.

Another singer will wear the surplice and mortar-board cap in her place next Sunday morning, her withdrawal having taken effect at once.

Mrs. Mahoney, a bride of last June, sang for 10 months in the Pilgrim Church choir, having been engaged last spring, when a change was made from a quartet of high-salaried professional singers to a quartet and chorus.

"We had begun rehearsing the Easter music," said Mrs. Mahoney to a Post-Dispatch reporter Friday, "when I was informed that another quartet was to take part in the Easter exercises.

"I do not feel that this was fair to the quartet of which I was a member and I told Mr. Saylor so. As the plans were not changed, I notified him of my resignation."

Mrs. Mahoney was Miss Gertrude Lampel before her marriage last summer to Frank Pour Mahoney, contracting agent for the Union Pacific in St. Louis. She has taken part in several amateur theatrical events, and her impersonation of Fritzi Scheff at the 1908 Charity Carnival was one of the carnival's chief hits.

She was married on the eve of her parents' departure for Europe, and the wedding was a surprise to her father and mother, who had expected her to accompany them. Her home is in the Ormond Apartments, 758 Goodfellow avenue.

COL. ASTOR GIVES A BIG DIVORCE BALL IN GOTHAM

entertainment challenged attention. There have been several more expensive affairs in New York. The Astor evening was made a matter of seeming simplicity. There were no flamboyant decorations. Nothing but 140 dozen roses and a few incidental palms and ferns. Simplicity also ruled in the matter of the favors and the fact that they cost $18,000 and the entire evening's pleasure probably cost more than $25,000, was a mere incident.

The generous hospitality extended by Col. Astor on the night before his divorce extended even to the coachmen, the footmen and the chauffeurs. Each was provided with a ticket calling for a 50-cent lunch from wagons outside the house.

It was really an evening's entertainment divided into five parts. First came the dinner. From the conclusion of the dinner until half an hour after midnight, there was dancing. Besides this, more than one-half of the Colonel's guests had their carriages and motor cars waiting and rushed to the Calico Ball at Sherry's, where they let their presence be known, and then rushed back to the Astor mansion. Then came supper and, as a climax, the cotillon led by Harry Lehr and Mrs. M. Orme Wilson.

There were 150 guests. Under the old regime, the two Astor houses, with a connection of one door between them, have often greeted more than 600 guests, but 150 appears to be the new number. There was much speculation among those present as to when Mrs. Astor will give her first entertainment, but there was no dispute that Col. Astor made a most delightful host and complications were cheerfully consigned to the future.

LONDON HEARS MRS. ASTOR WILL GET $400,000 A YEAR ALIMONY

LONDON, March 4.—Friends of Mrs. Alva Willing Astor here are rejoicing over a report that she is to receive $400,000 a year alimony. No one knows how the report originated. It had been previously reported that she would get only $50,000 a year. That would be nothing as Anglo-American hostesses are regarded by English society.

Her friends had been looking forward with some regret to the prospect of her falling into a secondary place, especially as she is so greatly admired for her beauty.

Lady Essex is staying with Mrs. Astor here and is giving her points on how to run her London establishment. Heretofore, Mrs. Astor has had everything done for her and for the first time she is realising the need of looking after her own affairs. It is understood by her friends that she intends to make her permanent home here.

GRAND JURY IS AFTER CHICAGO OLEO FACTORIES

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, March 4.—For the first time in the history of the United States Government's fight on oleomargerine makers, a $200,000 factory owned by Congressman William J. Moxley, is threatened with confiscation as a "moonshine" plant. This is the most important feature of a complete unmasking before Judge Landis of the conspiracy of butterine makers, who, it is charged, have defrauded the Government out of more than $1,000,000 revenue in five years.

Moreover, it was disclosed by the witnesses that hotels and restaurants in the loop, and even hospitals, were users of rancid stuff often condemned by United States food inspectors as "unfit" for "human food," but sold by the conspirators.

Under instructions of Judge Landis the Federal grand jury today took up the investigation where it was dropped yesterday with a view to catching in the Government net the big manufacturers who are supposed to have intimate knowledge of the frauds practiced on the Government and the public.

Packers Also Accused.

The manufacturers who furnished the questionable butterine, according to Daniel Bortz, a convicted "moonshiner" are: Congressman William J. Moxley, John J. Jelke, Cudahy & Co. and Swift & Co.

PINCHOT ADMITS LETTER IS ONLY 'FRAUD' EVIDENCE

Says Ballinger's Communication to Taft Was What He Based Charge On.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The cross-examination of Gifford Pinchot proceeded slowly before the Congressional Investigating Committee today.

Mr. Vertrees, counsel for Secretary Ballinger, and Mr. Pinchot, got into long argument as to the meaning of some of the lawyer's questions. They also argued almost continuously as to inferences to be drawn from documentary evidence. Vertrees did draw from the witness the fact that his only first-hand knowledge of any act reflecting upon Secretary Ballinger, in connection with the Cunningham cases, was based on the letter sent by Ballinger to President Taft November 15.

With reference to his claim that Ballinger had deceived the President concerning a decision by the Comptroller of the Treasury, Pinchot admitted that Ballinger's written statement to the President was a fair one and the documents that he submitted were all that properly bore on the case. He insisted, however, that there was the "unavoidable inference" that Ballinger had communicated in some other way with the President.

Vertrees also brought out that the co-operative agreement with the forest service, which Ballinger discontinued, was not the usual arrangement whereby one department lends its employes temporarily to another, but provided that employes of the Interior Department should be under the exclusive control and jurisdiction of the forester.

SPEECHES ON SHOES HEARD AT HAMILTON-BROWN BANQUET

Three Hundred Are Dined at Planters as Guests of Manufacturing Firm.

Twelve speeches on shoes and shoe salesmen were made Thursday night at the Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co. banquet at the Planters' Hotel.

In the speeches many tributes were paid to A. D. Brown, president and founder of the company, who is ill in Florida. William H. Sloan was toastmaster. Those who spoke were Thomas S. Hall, William H. Atkinson, William H. Tharp, Charles L. McCain, Frank M. Fields, Charles T. Eicholtz, H. S. Bunting, W. P. Ela, M. G. Cunningham, H. O. Peyton, W. G. Claus and the Rev. W. J. Williamson, who addressed the gathering on the subject of "Character and Salesmanship."

There were 300 at the banquet. On behalf of the salesmen, C. M. Meyers presented H. S. Bunting with a diamond pin for his efforts to entertain them while in St. Louis. The Boston salesmen departed Thursday to return to New England.

One of the features of the banquet was an elaborate menu card, which contained, besides the names of the guests, pictures of A. D. Brown and the officers of the company as well as of the factory superintendents and department managers, and illustrations in color of the factories.

FEARED PLAGUE, ENDS HIS LIFE

Grief over the death of his brother, which occurred a year ago, combined with a fear that he was threatened with consumption, caused Charles P. Johnstone, for 20 years an assistant carpenter at the Olympic Theater, to end his life. Johnstone drank carbolic acid Thursday night at his home, 2200 Wash street.

His brother, William Johnstone, who died a year ago, was his idol. Charles Johnstone was a member of the Theatrical Mechanical Association No. 5 and St. Louis Theatrical Brotherhood No. 6.

Business Men Ask for Ten Months' Terminal Truce

Schutz, "on the condition that men of the proper ideas are in charge. If the people on the committee are friends of the arbitrary, however, nothing will be accomplished.

"In my letter Wednesday to the Post-Dispatch, I said I was not opposed to granting the Terminal a reasonable time for negotiations. I think that 10 months is a rather long truce, but I should not quibble over a few months.

"When the merchants join and make a united demand for the removal of the bridge embargo, it must go. The railroads are yielding more and more to public sentiment as they see they cannot stand against it.

"I am agreeable to the truce, on the condition that it be employed in removing the arbitrary. If not, we shall proceed to handle the Terminal just as we should any other offender under the laws."

The shippers met to organize a permanent Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association for the purpose of arranging a final solution of the arbitrary problem.

Their plea was inferentially addressed to City Attorney Anderson and to the Municipal Assembly, in which there are rumblings of proposed legal proceedings to oust the company's tracks from street illegally occupied.

Among the signers of the resolution were I. H. Sawyer and H. W. Peters, two of the shoe men whose report on the terminal situation was as influential as any other force in defeating the Ranken tract bill, and Charles A. Stix, one of the signers of the shippers' memorial favoring the vacation of the Ranken tract.

Resolved, That it is the unanimous opinion of those present that the removal of the Terminal tracks, now on certain city streets by the permits of Mayor Wells and Mayor Kriesmann, would be disastrous to the commerce of the city and would result in such congestion in the receipt and discharge of freight and passenger business as would bring about immeasurable loss and damage to every business interest, thereby affecting the welfare of the city and its future growth, on account of the unquestioned fact that our terminals are already totally inadequate, and such action would materially cripple their operation; and,

Resolved, That we petition the proper authorities to arrange that a respite from all penalties for such occupancy of said streets be granted to the Terminal Railroad Association until Jan. 1, 1911, and,

Resolved, That each member of this committee here present pledges himself to use his best efforts to bring about an adjustment of the present unsatisfactorily situation.

And Resolved, That a committee of nine be appointed to arrange for a permanent organization and to confer with all parties concerned as to the best methods of procedure.

The meeting resulted from a call circulated among the shippers Thursday afternoon suggesting the organization of a permanent association "to consider the Terminal situation and to further the interests of St. Louis as a whole." The first signer of the call was Jackson Johnson, who says he is not certain who suggested the meeting to him.

"The meeting did not agree on all subjects broached," said he, "but included in its resolutions the matters on which there was agreement. All the men present signed the resolutions."

"KIDNAPED" CHILDREN PLAYED TRUANT TO VISIT AN AUNT

Stayed All Night in St. Louis While Wellston Police Sought Them.

Mary and Thomas Meehan, children of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Meehan of Wellston, are back at home after giving their parents an anxious night. They returned Thursday evening and explained that they had not been kidnaped, as their parents feared.

They were pupils of Notre Dame Parish School, and played "hookey" Wednesday afternoon by going to see their aunt, Mrs. Tillie Keenin of Newstead and Cote Brilliante avenues, in the city. She thought the Meehan family knew where the children had gone and let them stay all night at her house.

PENSION APPLICANT GIVES 14 MALADIES IN HIS SCHEDULE

He Does Not Include Defective Spelling, of Which He Gives Many Symptoms.

The 14 maladies which John W. Luton assigned as reasons why he should have a pension became 15 when pension agents added defective spelling to the list. Luton until recently resided at Portageville, New Madrid County. He was a member of the First Tennessee Infantry during the Spanish war.

When Luton's papers were received at the pension office in St. Louis it was found, he said, he was afflicted specifically with rheumatism, catarrh of the head, catarrh of the stomach, lumbago, malarial poisoning, disease of the lungs, disease of the heart, disease of the stomach, indigestion, disease of the throat, slight deafness of both ears, weak eyes, poor eyesight, disease of the liver.

The depositions accompanying the application were faulty in spelling of many words. H. S. Elliott, United States Pension Examiner, says Luton has admitted to him that he forged the depositions, using fictitious names. He was arrested in Hurricane Mills, Tenn., and will be brought to St. Louis for trial.

DEEP-SEATED COUGH

CURED IN 5 HOURS.

New Home-Made Syrup.

(Cut this out.)

From Boston Press.

Progress in medical compounds never ceases, and now it is stated by a prominent medical man that any deep-seated cough or cold on the lungs can be actually cured in five hours by the clock. Opium and morphine have been resorted to in the past, as relief measures. But now it is learned that the system must be treated to rid it of inflammation and congestion. A tonic laxative cough syrup does the work so quickly and thoroughly as to be almost magical. What heretofore has taken weeks to cure can be accomplished in hours. Get this formula filled or mix it at home and always keep it on hand: One-half ounce fluid wild cherry bark, one ounce compound essence cardiol and three ounces syrup white pine compound. Shake the bottle and take twenty drops every half hour for four hours. Then take one-half to one teaspoonful three or four times a day until the system is purified and tones up. Give children less according to age. One filling will usually cure a whole family, as the dose is small. * * *

ROCKEFELLER STUDIED HIS CHARITY PLAN TEN YEARS

Foundation Is Designed to Last Forever and to Be of World-Wide Benefit—John D. Jr. Will Have Charge of the Huge Fund.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 4.—Final preparations through which he will become almoner-in-chief for the Rockefeller Foundation, authority for which has been asked from Congress, are being made today by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., son of the Standard Oil magnate, and he will be ready to take up the work of dispensing the millions which his father has decided to give away.

One of the steps in this direction, which passed unnoticed at the time it was taken, was the dropping of his name from the directorate of the Standard Oil Co. While he had not been active in directing the affairs of Standard Oil for some time, it was not until Jan. 11 that he dropped out of the directorate and the membership of the board was reduced by one to avoid a vacancy.

The younger Rockefeller is to be left absolutely untrammeled in the management of the gigantic charity which his father has planned. He is 33 years old. Only recently he left Brown University and was hailed in the business field as the richest young man in the world. Now he is to become the dispenser of the greatest charity in the world.

Studied Plan for Years.

Rockefeller's plan for the distribution of his millions through the medium of a philanthropy of unlimited possibilities and wholly unprecedented in the history of the world, was the outcome, it was learned today, of more than ten years of study of charities and benefactions established since the birth of Christianity.

The bill introduced into the United States Senate last Wednesday to provide for the carrying out of the plan was prepared more than two years ago and had been discussed, amended and revised until in the opinion of its framers the very last contingency of which the human mind could conceive, that might in any way affect the success of the scheme, had been guarded against.

"Mr. Rockefeller's principal idea," said F. T. Gates, chief almoner for the "Oil King" today, "is to avoid the 'dead hand;' to place his fortune in the care of a self-perpetuating, virtually immortal body, and to see that it does not fall into the clutches of a dead hand reaching out from the coffin long after the brain that directed it had passed into eternity.

Clutched in a Dead Hand.

"Heretofore practically every charitable bequest had been made for some specific purpose. As the world has progressed, however, and civilization has changed the needs to relieve which the money was bequeathed have passed away. What is the result? The money, owing to the deed of trust under which it was given, cannot be devoted to any other purpose and is held tight in the dead hand.

"The history of benefactions and charities all over the world show that time and again legislation has been necessary to get this money out of the clutches of the dead hands and to place it where its donor, if he were alive, would desire it to be placed.

"If Mr. Rockefeller could live to be 1000 years old it would not be necessary to create this foundation, because he would always be on hand to give his money to such things and to such causes as he should deem best for the human race. But as he cannot live forever, as he cannot spend all his money while he is alive, and as his children do not want it, he has decided on this novel plan to carry out his views of the best way to aid the human race.

Amount of Gift Not Known.

"We have no means of knowing just how much Mr. Rockefeller will give to the foundation. That is to be decided by him after Congress has passed the bill to incorporate it. In establishing the philanthropy he has merely formed a basket into which he intends to put the money he desires to give in charity.

"This basket, however, is not intended to be for his use alone. Anyone who likes can deposit in it and I believe that, as the idea is better understood, many other great philanthropists will embrace the opportunity to make their gifts forever useful rather than to devote them to one or more objects the need of which may pass away in a very short time.

"Another thing about this fund is that it can be devoted to relieve the needs of anybody. The Rockefeller foundation, under its charter, will be ready to send immediate aid anywhere.

"It must not be understood that this new fund is to take the place of any of the Rockefeller charities outstanding or that it is to absorb them. They are independent and cannot be interfered with."

May Remove Prejudice.

CHICAGO, March 4.—Dr. D. K. Pearsons, who has given away all his millions to small colleges, and now, at 90, is living his remaining years on a remnant of his fortune, says:

"Mr. Rockefeller deserves the commendations of the whole people. This noble foundation will, I believe, in time remove the prejudice which exists in many minds against Mr. Rockefeller."

Dr. Emil G. Hirsch, the noted Jewish leader, said:

"Here are some suggestions to Mr. Rockefeller: Teach the poor how to live. Teach wives how to cook. Establish an endowment fund for young couples who want to get married. No one can ever calculate the harm done to the race by the ignorance of untaught, poor young mothers. I would establish funds to educate them, both before and after the birth of their children so that the next generation would grow up strong and well."

WHAT REEDY SAYS ABOUT "THE BIG CINCH"

From the Mirror, March 3:

"People who seek a society that shall be a hotter proposition than Mr. Landau presents in his novel, 'The Big Cinch,' should take up their residence in an igloo somewhere above latitude 88 north."

"There's action enough in it to have surfeited Demosthenes."

"The hero has the drop on the heroes of Stanley Weyman or Anthony Hope."

"The book will be of good effect on those who read it. They will make the acquaintance of something new in literary style—Arabesques upon the Victor Hugonian. The binding alone will give any one a thrill for a week."

FLYING SCHOOL TO BE STARTED BY AERO CLUB

St. Louis Experts Will Co-Operate in Building a Successful Aeroplane.

An organization similar to the Aerial Experiment Association of New York which turned out Curtiss and Hamilton is to be formed in St. Louis. A meeting of inventors, builders of aeroplanes and aero enthusiasts will be held Friday night in the offices of the Berry Automobile Company at Cook and Vandeventer avenues.

The organization will not be a rival of the Aero Club of St. Louis, and, in fact, will be fathered by the club. E. Percy Noel, acting secretary of the Aero Club of St. Louis, will give an illustrated lecture on foreign and American aeroplanes.

Invitations to the meeting have been sent to the high schools and universities in the hope of finding ideas there. The promoters of the association say that they hope, by the discussion and comparison of their ideas, to evolve a St. Louis aeroplane that will fly.

President Lambert of the Aero Club of St. Louis probably will attend the meeting if he returns from New York in time. News dispatches from New York state he left there Thursday afternoon after conferring with officials of the Aero Club of America. Secretary Noel says Lambert may have stopped over in Indianapolis.

Lambert went to New York to urge upon the officials of the Aero Club of America the advantages of St. Louis as the city for the International Balloon race to be held in October.

Dispatches from New York indicate that Lambert was successful in his mission. A Post-Dispatch correspondent, who called on him at the Waldorf after he had talked to officials of the Aero Club of America, was referred in a confident manner by Lambert to President Bishop.

Bishop said, "I can only say this: that the ballooning record made by St. Louis, and especially at the time of the international race in 1907, greatly impressed everyone, especially the foreigners.

The meeting at which the city will be chosen will be held Saturday in the new offices of the Aero Club of America in the Engineers' Building, New York.

Try Leaving Coffee Alone

One day and drink a steaming hot cup of Postum just before going to bed.

As a relief from insomnia it is a surprise of the most pleasing kind

"There's a Reason" for

POSTUM

Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich.

A DOCTOR'S SLEEP

Found He Had to Leave Off Coffee.

Many persons do not realize that a bad stomach will cause insomnia.

Coffee drinking, being such an ancient and respectable form of dissipation, few realize that the drug—caffeine—contained in the coffee and tea, is one of the principal causes of dyspepsia and nervous troubles.

Without their usual portion of coffee, the coffee topers are nervous, irritable and fretful. That's the way with a whiskey drinker. He has got to have his dram "to settle his nerves"—habit.

To leave off coffee is an easy matter if you want to try it, because Postum—well boiled according to directions—gives a gentle but natural support to the nerves and does not contain any drug—nothing but food.

Physicians know this to be true, as one from Ga. writes:

"I have cured myself of a long-standing case of Nervous Dyspepsia by leaving off coffee and using Postum," says the doctor.

"I also enjoy refreshing sleep, to which I had been an utter stranger for 20 years.

"In treating Dyspepsia in its various types, I find little trouble when I can induce patients to quit coffee and adopt Postum."

The doctor is right and "there's a reason." Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Shoe Bills

Cuts Your Shoe Bills in Two

Chances are your shoe polish is robbing your shoes of half their wear—and doubling your shoe bills!

The uppers of your shoes should outwear two pairs of soles. If they don't, you are probably using shoe polish containing turpentine.

Turpentine dries the leather in your shoes—causes it to harden, check and crack. Makes it prematurely old.

There is no Turpentine in Mason's Black Shine.

It is food for your shoes. Preserves them—makes them soft and pliable. Its use will cut your shoe bills in two. And Mason's Black Shine gives the best, quickest and most durable polish—the smoothest, richest, blackest black polish—not a blue black polish nor a brown black polish like others.

LEDLIE TO WED DEBUTANTE HE FOLLOWED TO CALIFORNIA

The engagement of Miss Emma Conroy, debutante niece of Mrs. Joseph Dickson of 4346 Westminster place, to Jack Ledlie, son of Charles H. Ledlie of 4162 Washington boulevard, is reported in a news dispatch from Los Angeles, Cal., the home of Miss Conroy.

It is said that the engagement is to be formally announced at the close of the Los Angeles society kirmess. Miss Conroy is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Conroy. The latter is the sister of Mrs. Dickson.

Miss Conroy made her debut at the home of her aunt in St. Louis last season, and young Ledlie is said to have shown her many attentions. He followed her to her California home, and pressed his suit to a successful issue, dispatches say.

Mrs. Dickson is now in New York, preparing for a European tour. Her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Joseph Dickson Jr., 378 Walton avenue, says she has no information concerning the engagement. At the Ledlie residence it was denied that any engagement existed. Charles H. Ledlie is a consulting engineer, with offices in the Rialto Building.

Suffragettes at Meeting Demand More Car Straps

LULU McCLURE CLARK.

STRAUSS PORTRAIT

MISS FLORENCE RICHARDSON

"Votes-for-Women" Campaign Started by First Meeting Ever Held in St. Louis in Interest of the Cause.

That more straps are needed in the street cars is a plank in the new suffragette platform for St. Louis. The campaign of suffragism was opened Thursday night at the Cabanne Branch Library at Cabanne avenue and Union boulevard.

The sentiment was uttered by Miss Lulu McClure Clark. It was received with enthusiasm by the crowd which filled the auditorium of the library building for the first suffragette meeting ever held in St. Louis.

Miss Florence Richardson, seated on the speakers' platform, shook her pretty head and along with her head the gorgeous plumes of the first Chanticleer hat that has made its appearance in St. Louis.

And the meeting was something to crow about. The only disturbers at the gathering were a few over-enthusiastic men who had wandered in by mistake and taken seats in the "bald-head" row.

Young Men Had Fun.

The young men thought the discussion funny and gave vent to their feelings in laughter. They enjoyed everything immensely, from the ideas advanced on the feminene principle in the divine idea down to the question of why a daughter who inherited her father's legal talent would not inherit his whiskers as well.

If it had been purely a man's meeting, the "bouncer" would have had them through the window five minutes after they were in the hall. But the speakers on the platform looked down on them with benignant smiles.

"Yes," said Miss Clark, "we want more straps to hang on in the street cars. We want better pay and shorter hours. We want"—

But at this point the speaker was interrupted. The chief disturber in the youthful troop, rising at one end of the line, called to a companion at the other end, "Come on kid, let's go."

Whereupon without further ado they filed out of the room in the greatest elation. Everybody breathed more freely and the speaker was enabled to again ake up the thread of her remarks and continue almost without interruption.

The heroine of the evening was the Titian-haired Miss Richardson—she of the Chanticleer hat. To her had been assigned the hardest topic for discussion—"The Militant Suffragette." As she advanced to the front of the stage she unconsciously demonstrated the truth of the theory of the New York suffragettes—that if they want anything from the Legislature they must send a pretty woman to lobby for it. Before she had opened her mouth to speak she was greeted with tumultuous hand-clapping by men in the audience.

Women Had to Strike.

Miss Richardson was all for "kicking ıp a row" when men refused to grant vomen their rights. She said that had een the advice given the militant sufragettes by one of the greatest politiians in England. She said that in ngland, or more properly in London, here had never been any reform withut "mobs and outbreaks and the women just had to pocket their pride and o out and strike."

Mrs. Florence Richardson, mother of he Apologist for the London suffraettes, spoke on suffrages from a philesophical view point. She criticised the ttitude of the Apostle Paul and the oet Milton toward women.

"Paul," she said, "unlike most men, as occasionally generous enough to adit that he was only a man, but I find his writings that he called on women to look on her husband as she looked n the Lord. As for Milton, he only permitted woman to see her husband through the eyes of the Lord. A certain Hebrew who has obtained the reputation of brilliancy, was called to address a class of young women of his race on a theological subject. I asked him what place the feminine principal had in the Hebrew idea of the Trinity. He blushed to the roots of his hair, and answered me that it had no place, that wherever the feminine principle had been worshipped the religion had degenerated.

Corrected Girls' Notion.

"I didn't answer him then, but I took those girls aside afterward and corrected the false notions he had given them. I know, as everybody else who has studied religion, that one of the three principles of the Jewish Trinity is feminine."

Miss Bertha Rombauer sounded a cheery note. She took a fling at Carnegie's hero board and gave it as her opinion that they might well begin by decorating the 80,000 girls who work on starvation wages in Pittsburg. But she saw better times coming when the dream of suffrage is realized and everybody has "books and flowers, and a little leisure surrounds all human beings."

The meeting was conducted under the auspices of the Christian Socialists. Secretary George H. Hall of that organization introduced the speakers.

Certain Proof Will Be Made That Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Cure Stomach Trouble.

A Trial Package Sent Free.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are made to give to the system, through the digestive tract and the stomach, the necessary chemicals not only to digest food, but to enrich the fluids of the body so that it may no longer suffer from dyspepsia or other stomach trouble.

We will send you a quantity of these tablets free, so that their power to cure may be proven to you.

Thousands upon thousands of people are using these tablets for the aid and cure of every known stomach disease. Know what you put into you stomach, and use discretion in doing so.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain fruit and vegetable essences, the pure concentrated tincture of Hydrastis, Golden Seal, which tone up and strengthen the mucous lining of the stomach, and increase the flow of gastric and other digestive juices; Lactose (extracted from milk); Nux, to strengthen the nerves controlling the action of the stomach and to cure nervous dyspepsia; pure aseptic Pepsin of the highest digestive power and approved by the United States Pharmacopoeia.

One of the ablest professors of the University of Michigan recently stated that this Pepsin was the only aseptic pepsin he had found that was absolutely pure—free from all animal impurities; Bismuth, to absorb gases and prevent fermentation. They are deliciously flavored with concentrated Jamaica Ginger—in itself a well known stomach tonic.

Liquid medicines lose their strength, the longer they are kept, through evaporation, fermentation and chemical changes, hence Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are recognized as the only true and logical manner of preserving the ingredients given above in their fullest strength.

If you really doubt the power of these tablets, take this advertisement to a druggist and ask his opinion of the formula.

It is due you stomach to give it the ingredients necessary to stop its trouble. It costs nothing to try. You know what you are taking, and the fame of these tablets prove their value. All druggists sell them. Price 50 cents. Send us your name and address and we will send you a trial package by mail free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Building, Marshall, Mich.

Hear Slezak

sing "Celeste Aida" in the

Edison Phonograph

The New York Tribune says:	The New York American says:
"Mr. Slezak dominated every scene, and his clarion voice rang out superbly in the climaxes. He sang the Celeste Aida with effectiveness, and the Nile scene with fire and passion, yet always with regard for phrase."	"It is but a trifling with words, of course, to say that he was the greatest Rhadames that ever appeared on the American Stage. The house was crowded and the standees out in force yet it was Slezak, not Caruso, who sang the principal tenor role."

These comments represent the consensus of opinion of all who heard Slezak at the Metropolitan in the role of Rhadames. Could you ask for better evidence of the fact that Slezak is the greatest lyric tenor since the days of Tamagno?

He sings the "Celeste Aida" and the great arias from Verdi's "Otello" exclusively for the Edison Phonograph. The Slezak Records are Edison Grand Opera Amberols—playing longer than any other Records made.

The AMBEROLA, the newest and highest type of Edison Phonograph combines the rich, tonal beauty of the Edison Phonograph with a cabinet that is a masterpiece of craftmanship. It is charmingly designed and finished and comes in either Mahogany or Oak to harmonize with surroundings in any home. It plays both Standard and Amberol Records. It has drawers for holding 100 Records. The price is $200. Other types of Edison Phonographs, $12.50 to $125.

See and hear the Amberola at your dealer's—and be sure to hear Slezak sing "Celeste Aida."

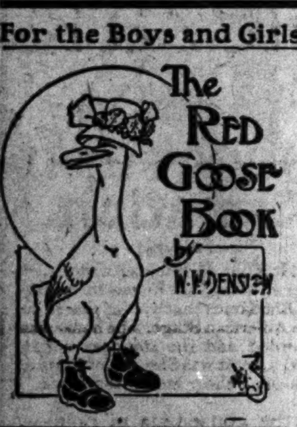
For the Boys and Girls Who Make the Best Drawings of the Red Goose



THE Friedman-Shelby Shoe Co., who manufacture the renowned RED GOOSE School Shoes, are offering $400.00 in cash prizes to the boys and girls of the United States who make the best drawings of the RED GOOSE. This great national drawing contest will continue all through the present year, and boys and girls from all parts of the United States and foreign countries will participate.

Meanwhile they want to find out who are the best artists in St. Louis, so they offer through us an additional $50.00 in cash prizes to the boys and girls of St. Louis who make the best drawings of the RED GOOSE. The winners in the local contest to then have their drawings entered in the national contest. The $50.00 will be divided into twenty prizes, as follows:

1 prize of $15.00	$15.00
1 prize of $10.00	$10.00
1 prize of $ 5.00	$ 5.00
2 prizes of $ 2.50	$ 5.00
15 prizes of $ 1.00	$15.00
20 prizes amounting to	$50.00

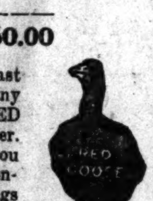
Every boy and every girl who makes a drawing of the RED GOOSE and brings it into our store, will be mailed a copy of the RED GOOSE Book, printed in six colors, with 9 poems and 15 pictures, by W. W. Denslow. Bring your drawings down at once, register your name and address, and you will get a copy of this book.



The rules of the contest will be the same as prevailed during our drawing contest last year. Every boy and girl under 16 years of age may enter. You can submit as many drawings as you like. They may be serious or humorous. They may show the RED GOOSE alone, or may show a scene in which the RED GOOSE is a prominent character. They may be drawn with pen and ink, pencil, crayon, water colors, or any medium you like. They may be in black or colors. The drawings should be reasonably large, say not smaller than a sheet of letter paper. The drawings must be brought down to our store by you and entered at the booth provided for that purpose. The committee to judge the drawings will be composed of an advertising man, an artist, a newspaper man and a shoe man, all prominent men well known in St. Louis. The contest will open at once and continue for 14 weeks, closing Saturday, June 11th.

FRIEDMAN-SHELBY SHOE CO.

Now, let's see how well the boys and girls of St. Louis can draw. Remember, you will compete first for the $50.00 cash prizes in local contest. Then your drawings will be entered in the national event, and you will have a chance to win in that $400.00 Contest.

Watch for the RED GOOSE. She will soon come in her chariot to visit your school.

About Red Goose School Shoes

RED GOOSE School Shoes are the "Finest and Best" for boys and girls. They have won fame all over the world and more boys and girls are wearing them than are wearing any other kind. They are made in all sizes and in all styles, for dress and everyday wear, high and low cuts, black and tan. The RED GOOSE School Shoes belong to the "All Leather" line of shoes made by the Friedman-Shelby Shoe Co. The "All Leather" trade-mark is stamped on every shoe, as a guarantee that it is made of leather through and through, with no cheap substitutes in any part. Every genuine RED GOOSE School Shoe also has the picture of the RED GOOSE woven in red satin on the inside top facing of the shoe, so that you may always be able to tell genuine RED GOOSE Shoes.

SALESMAN PREACHER HAD ARRESTED FOR BEATING A PEDDLER IS FINED $15

The Rev. H. B. Jones Declares Assault on Apple Vender Was Unwarranted.

Having been placed under arrest by the Rev. H. Breese Jones, pastor of the Redeemer Congregational Church, Charles L. Teutenberg was fined $15 and costs by Judge Tracy Friday for knocking down Harry Salsberg, an apple peddler.

The Rev. Mr. Jones was the chief witness. He said he was passing 804 Olive street, where Teutenberg is employed as a shoe salesman, Thursday afternoon, and saw him run out of the store and strike Salsberg, whose apples went rolling into the gutter.

Teutenberg replied that Salsberg called him a name, and admitted striking him. The clergyman testified that he heard no epithet passed, and that he believed the assault was "unwarranted and brutal." He seized Teutenberg, he said, and held him until a policeman came. Teutenberg lives at 2935A University street, and Salsberg at 825 Morgan street.

DR. HULL SAYS PREACHERS AND BUSINESS MEN WILL BACK HIM

Physician Accused of Vaughn Murder Preparing Defense With His Lawyers.

MONROE CITY, Mo., March 4.—Dr. James R. Hull, who is out on bonds of $15,000 and $7500, on the charge of murdering Prof. John T. Vaughn, is in conference with his lawyers today, preparing his defense. He declares that in his fight to prove his innocence of the crime he will be backed up by ministers and business men who have offered their aid.

Hull exhibited a number of envelopes postmarked at Good Hope and Bushnell, Ill., which he said contained letters from ministers, merchants, physicians and bankers, expressing belief in his innocence and proffering aid if it is needed. He expects these to vouch for him when the case comes to trial.

W. E. Hull of Peoria, Ill., a cousin of the accused physician and postmaster at Peoria under Presidents McKinley and Roosevelt, is here conferring with his relative and is said to have supplied financial aid. He is reported to be a millionaire.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Is the best of all medicines for the cure of diseases, disorders and weaknesses peculiar to women. It is the only preparation of its kind devised by a regularly graduated physician—an experienced and skilled specialist in the diseases of women.

It is a safe medicine in any condition of the system.

THE ONE REMEDY which contains no alcohol and no injurious habit-forming drugs and which creates no craving for such stimulants.

THE ONE REMEDY so good that its makers are not afraid to print its every ingredient on each outside bottle-wrapper and attest to the truthfulness of the same under oath.

It is sold by medicine dealers everywhere, and any dealer who hasn't it can get it. Don't take a substitute of unknown composition for this medicine of KNOWN COMPOSITION. No counterfeit is as good as the genuine and the druggist who says something else is "just as good as Dr. Pierce's" is either mistaken or is trying to deceive you for his own selfish benefit. Such a man is not to be trusted. He is trifling with your most priceless possession—your health—may be your life itself. See that you get what you ask for.

TEXAS GOVERNOR WILL PROSECUTE NEGRO LYNCHERS

Declares He Will Call Special Grand Jury to Indict Mob Members.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DALLAS, Tex., March 4.—Leaders of the mob which yesterday took Allen Brooks, a negro, on trial for a criminal attack, from the Courthouse and hanged him to an arch in the central portion of the city were alarmed by the announcement that Gov. Campbell would demand the calling of a special grand jury to investigate and arrange for the punishment of the participants.

After Brooks was hanged, Dallas, for nearly three hours, was in the hands of the mob. The jail was stormed and death was threatened to three other negroes held on charges of murder. They had been taken away, however. After searching for them in vain, the mob dispersed. All saloons were closed at 12 o'clock by order of the Police Commissioner. Mayor Stephen Hay and Sheriff Ledbetter joined in a call to the militia, but the troops were not used.

The mob, which came mostly from the country, assembled at the Courthouse early. Allen Brooks was brought from Sherman, where he had been in jail to avoid lynching since the day he attacked Mary Ethel Buvens, 2½ years old, one week ago today. The mob wore no masks, nor made any effort to conceal identities. They made it clear at the beginning that if the trial proceeded at once the law could take its course. If delays were sought and technicalities resorted to, then Judge Lynch would hold court.

When attorneys for the defense, appointed by the Court, began arguments in behalf of a postponement of the trial until tomorrow, rumors started through the crowd that a change of venue had been granted.

This statement caused a demonstration. A shrill whistle and the command of a hoarse voice that shouted, "Come on, boys!" was the signal for the attack. The stairs were stormed, officers swept aside, the doors of the courtroom were wrecked and the negro crouching in the corner praying was seized by leaders.

PREACHERS SEE NEGRO SLAYER OF WOMAN HANGED

Black, Twice Reprieved and Threatened by Mob, Confesses on Gallows.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CARTHAGE, Mo., March 4.—William Wilson, a negro, was hanged in the court yard of the county jail at 6 o'clock this morning for the murder of Mrs. Millie Plumb, white, at Carl Junction, Mo., July 5, 1908. Sheriff Arch McDonald sprung the trap.

About forty spectators, mostly ministers, city and county officials and newspaper men, witnessed the execution. Wilson made a written confession explaining that he did not think he could go to heaven with a lie on his lips. He requested the confession be sent to his mother at Bastrop, La.

The murder of Mrs. Plumb, who was a member of a small carnival company, was brutal. Wilson attacked her, then tied a rope about her neck and dragged her several hundred yards, hiding her body in a box car. He was arrested next day. After being sentenced to hang he was twice reprieved. The second postponement of the execution aroused the anger of Jasper County citizens and there was hint of mob violence.

ELECTRIC FIRM RESTRAINED FROM PATENT INFRINGEMENTS

Judge Smith McPherson of the United States Circuit Court issued an injunction against the Century Electric Co. Friday, restraining it from infringing upon the patents of the Wagner Electric Co., and ordering it to make an accounting to the Wagner Co. for the last six years. The amount involved is said to be between $50,000 and $100,000.

It was alleged that the Century Company infringed upon three Wagner patents, one of which expired two years ago. The Wagner Company is one of the largest electrical manufacutring concerns in the country and is backed by many wealthy St. Louisans. Ex-Judge Daniel G. Taylor was appointed master to take the testimony in the accounting.

YOUNG MEN'S HAIR

STRONG REASONS WHY IT SHOULD BE CAREFULLY CARED FOR.

By H. Alexander Vandeman.

A bald headed man at 35 usually looks as old as a man with plenty of hair who has passed his fiftieth milestone.

"What difference does that make?" said a friend of mine the other day.

It makes all the difference in the world, said I, and if you were losing your hair at a lively rate you would stop and apply a little logic to your reasoning.

Men, I continued, are as vain as women, although they are more adept at hiding their vanity, and I do not believe you can find a man in all creation who at 35 would be pleased to have another man guess his age as 50.

And furthermore, I want to say to every right-thinking man in America, that baldness among young men is getting to be a serious industrial problem.

In these days of keen competition, when soulless, grasping corporations are demanding and getting the best, most vigorous and energetic men in the country, it is a well known fact that young men have the preference, and that many corporations have made it a rule to retire employes at 45 and 50 years of age, and to replace them with younger and seemingly more vigorous men.

The baldheaded man at 35 nowadays will have just as hard a time finding a desirable job as the man of 50 with luxuriant hair.

For this reason alone (if we choose to discard the idea that men are not as vain as women), every man who cares anything for those dependent upon him should take care of his hair. Don't become bald or gray and old looking at 35, or 40, or 50. Take care of your hair, and you can better take care of your job.

If you have dandruff, look out. Your scalp is full of little germs, digging night and day into the roots of the hair, and destroying that vitality without which healthy hair is impossible.

Now I want to tell all readers of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch that Wolff-Wilson, the druggists, have a guaranteed cure for dandruff called Parisian Sage, that will cure dandruff in two weeks or you can have your money back.

That's a pretty fair offer, isn't it? But let me go further and say that Parisian Sage is also guaranteed to stop falling hair, itching of the scalp, and to grow hair.

And let me say to the ladies that a large percentage of the beautiful women of America are using Parisian Sage, because it is the most delightful, refreshing and invigorating hair dressing made. It will quickly turn dull, lusterless and lifeless hair into luxuriant, soft and beautiful hair. Price is 50 cents a bottle from Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., or by express, all charges prepaid, from the sole makers in America, the Giroux Mfg. Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

For The Woman That's Fat.

A Detroit physician says that the cheapest and safest mixture a fat woman who wants to get thin can use is ½ ounce Marmola (get it in the original ½-ounce package), ½ ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic and 3½ ounces Peppermint Water. The proper amount to take is a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime.

These ingredients may be obtained from any druggist at small cost, and make a combination that is not only excellent as a fat reducer, being able, it is claimed, to take off a pound a day without causing wrinkles, but is also a splendid help to the system as a whole, regulating the stomach and bowels (where the fat person's troubles begin), and clearing the skin of pimples and blotches. No exercise is required to help the remedy in its work and, best of all, no dieting is necessary while taking it—you can eat what you like.—ADV.

RICH MAN DROPS DEAD IN HIS BELLEVILLE HOME

Lost a Fortune at the Age of 42, but Made Another Out of Coal Mine.

Conrad Reineke, one of the rich men of Belleville, dropped dead at his home, 316 North Jackson street, at 5 p. m. Thursday of heart disease. He had been under treatment for some time for an affection of the heart. While sitting in a chair in his library, his wife heard him gasp and fall back. A physician was summoned and pronounced him dead.

Reineke was interested largely in coal lands in Kentucky. When a young man he made a fortune in coal lands, but withdrew from that line and put nearly all of his money in the Western Nail Mill in Belleville. In 1886, when the nail mill failed, Reineke was almost bankrupt.

Although 42 years old, he went back into the coal business and he leaves a fortune variously estimated from $300,000 to $400,000. He owns a coal mine at Madison, Ky., on which there is an option now, to expire in April, of $225,000.

If there's some way we can influence you just to try on ten, twenty or even fifty different Spring Overcoats from our newest arrivals, we think it will result in good for you, and for us. Or, we'll be glad to send a selection of coats to your home, where you can try them on before the home folks, and away from salesmen, mirrors and such. What we're after is some method of forcing you to see for yourself, without being told, the infinite superiority of our tailoring, the classy beauty of our woollens and the absolute rock-bottomness and reasonableness of our prices. We don't want to scold other dealers, and we won't have to if we can get your eye, not your ear, for a period of say half an hour. These new overcoats sell for $16.50 up to $45. Will you drop in and sort of enjoy them?

War on in Senate; Postal Bill Debated

Taft Relies Upon Aldrich and Speaker Cannon to Carry Out His Policies Despite the Attitude of Insurgents.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The Post-Dispatch printed a story on Jan. 19 stating that the President had set his back to the wall and defied the insurgents to defeat his program. The insurgent senators have answered the challenge and have declared open war on Mr. Taft and his policies, or the policies of anyone else advanced by him.

Previously the President had put Senators Clapp of Minnesota, La Follette of Wisconsin, Cummins of Iowa and Bristow of Kansas on the blacklist. These are the men who, the President believed, should be regarded with even more suspicion than Democrats.

Senator Dolliver, who has been tolerated at the White House, has added his own name to the blacklist by voting with the Democrats on an amendment to the postal savings bank bill.

To Fight to a Finish.

When the Senate minority report, written by Cummins and Clapp, on the President's interstate commerce bill, was read yesterday it was generally agreed among members of Congress that the insurgent Republicans had accepted the challenge of Mr. Taft and were out to fight to a finish.

The Post-Dispatch stated on Jan. 19 the President's position as being that of a man who didn't give a rap about the consequence as long as he believed he was right. It was stated at that time that he intended that the Republican party's promises in the campaign as interpreted by him should be carried out and that "laws can be enacted only by party."

For that reason the President at the time stated that he necessarily would work with the party leaders in the two houses, meaning Messrs. Aldrich and Cannon.

The President, while admitting, as he frequently has done, that Senator Aldrich is a "much higher tariff man" than himself, also believes that Mr. Aldrich is working in harmony with the White House on the presidential program. He does not agree with Senator Aldrich on a number of questions, nor, largely, on administrative matters, but he finds Mr. Aldrich behind him in keeping the party pledges and is his friend on that party, and, as the President believes, patriotic basis.

Believes Aldrich Maligned.

The President believes that Mr. Aldrich has been much maligned by adverse newspaper comment.

Regarding Mr. Cannon, the President's position is that Cannon is in a position of power in the House and that, generally, although to a lesser degree than Mr. Aldrich, Mr. Cannon has done good work for the party and the nation. It is no secret that the President would be delighted if Mr. Cannon would announce openly that he would not again be a candidate for Speaker. That statement was made by the President at Hot Springs after his election, and before he took office and he has not changed his mind. But the President is satisfied that the undue popularity of Cannon at one time is balanced by an equally unjust criticism of him at this time.

In brief Mr. Aldrich and Mr. Cannon are the men at the helm at present and are to be considered by an Executive who wishes to get his measures made into law even if that Executive doesn't think a whole lot of the leaders on whom he must rely.

The President will not be surprised if the next House of Representatives is Democratic. He has made this statement to a number of visitors and has written it to personal friends. For that reason, believing, as he does, that the last tariff act was an improvement, and that further tinkering at this time may disturb business seriously, the President hopes that the coming Democratic victory will not extend to the Senate. He has expressed the hope, both to callers and in letters that Senator Beveridge will be re-elected from Indiana. Friends of the President say that Beveridge in the White House estimation occupies much the same position as the things that the subway is paved with—good intentions, but so uncertain as to what he really ought to do, or as to what his people will think, that he is not dependable.

However, Mr. Beveridge has the benefit of the doubt at the White House and its hope is that he will be returned.

The President, though seeing day by day the teeth drawn from the measures he has offered to Congress, still has "his back to the wall," as was stated in the Post-Dispatch January 19. He now, as then, insists that "the United States is passing through a period of supreme hypocrisy" and that he will stand by the men who stand by him. This eliminates the insurgents, into which class Senator Dolliver went openly.

Friends of Administration Would Rather See the Savings Bank Bill Die Than Suffer Objectionable Amendments.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Friends of the administration Postal Savings Bank bill did not feel greatly assured as to its prospects of passage when the Senate resumed consideration of the measure today with the idea of disposing of it during the day. The adoption of the pending Cummins amendment to the Smoot amendment, it was felt, would place the bill itself in jeopardy and they were strong in the opinion that every other matter should give way to the justification of the Smoot provision unchanged.

The Smoot amendment provides that, "When, in the judgment of the President, war or any other exigency involving the credit of the Government so requires, the board of trustees may withdraw all or any part of said funds from the banks and invest the same in bonds or other securities of the United States."

Mr. Cummins sought to change the provision so as to make sure of its application only in time of war.

Senator Root took the floor to urge the necessity of putting the bill on constitutional basis. His idea was to afford the people an opportunity to invest their earnings, he said, and at the same time put themselves in the position of supporting their Government.

With the end in view of establishing such a system, he said, he had introduced his amendment providing for the investment of funds in Government securities and expressed the opinion that without some such provision the bill would be invalid.

SATURDAY PIANOLA RECITAL.

Mrs. James T. Quarles, contralto, will be the soloist of tomorrow afternoon's piano recital at Aeolian Hall, with Mr. Morris W. Velsey at the pianola and Aeolian pipe organ. The program comprises the best known works of the world's master-composers, interpreted on the pianola and the Aeolian pipe organ, and the vocal numbers are of similar high quality and musical beauty. The hall opens at 2:30, the concert begins at 3, and no admission cards are required, the attendance being limited to the hall's seating capacity.

GIRLS WHO WORK OR STUDY NEED A GOOD TONIC

Otherwise They Become Thin and Pale, Lose Strength and Are in a Condition to Invite Consumption.

The pallor and lack of blood so often noted in the cases of school girls, as well as young girls employed in stores and factories, if not corrected by proper tonic treatment, may reasonably be counted upon as a source of suffering and annoyance until the age of forty is reached.

It indicates a lack of blood and with the blood deficient the growing girl cannot properly develop. It is a time when good red blood is urgently needed and the fact cannot be too strongly impressed upon parents.

The disease is easily recognized by the yellow-green pallor, breathlessness and palpitation of the heart upon the least exertion, and sometimes, but not always, a tendency to faintness. The one remedy perfectly adapted for the cure of this condition, free from opiates and perfectly safe under all conditions, is that recommended by Mrs. C. M. Bently, of No. 412 State street, Boone, Iowa, who says:

"When between the ages of fifteen and sixteen, I began to suffer from anaemia. I was run down in health through overstudy before the attack and this condition together with my age was probably the cause of my sickness. I became emaciated and did not have a particle of color. Although I had no appetite, I had a craving for chalk and other things that I could grit in my teeth. My stomach was in a very bad condition and gas was constantly forming on it. I had severe headaches all the time, had no ambition and could just drag around. I kept growing worse and had to quit school.

"The doctor told me I was bloodless and was going into consumption. After being under his care for some time and finding that I was not getting much benefit, I decided to take a blood tonic. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were recommended and I began to use them. In a short time I began to take on flesh and have an appetite. I continued with the pills until cured."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

BRINKOP AND NEGLIGENT TAXPAYERS.

The indignation of David R. Francis over Assessor Brinkop's decision that his taxable personal property is worth $2,000,000 is undoubtedly shared by the others whose assessments have been summarily increased. Like Mr. Francis, the others know that in case a personal tax return is not made the law gives the Assessor power to fix valuations; like him they probably have not made a personal return in 20 years, and they will join him in contesting the guessed valuations before the City Board of Equalization.

Such contests will bring to fulfillment the intentions of the law. The Assessor, of course, has no direct or personal knowledge of the value of the properties owned by citizens. Statements, voluntary or enforced, are his only means of gaining accurate knowledge.

The arbitrary increase of assessments is a forcing process. Nobody wants those whose assessments have been raised to pay a cent more than they should. Everybody wants them to pay their proportionate shares toward the support of the Government, according to the system in vogue. They themselves are quick to deny allegations or intimations that they are dodging taxes.

The difficulty is the result of slipshod methods in the assessing office in previous years. The assessing officers were content to guess modestly at the personal wealth of those who failed to make disclosures, and they were content with the guesses. It is an inescapable conclusion that their content arose from the modesty of the guesses, just as their indignation arises when the guesses are not modest. But the outcome this year will be justification for the bad guessing. The negligent taxpayers are on the defensive. They must disclose their wealth or pay the penalties.

The system which operated favorably for them under lax methods has been amended to act more justly toward all. The negligent property owners will, in the end, pay about what they should. Can they complain of official acts which are designed to promote justice?

If the Terminal railroad combine really intends to betake itself to East St. Louis we hail the intention as a promised blessing. East St. Louis hitherto has had all the benefit of the terminals without the disadvantage of the combine and its monopoly charges. We are eager to part with the combine; we want the railroads which can find ample use for the combine's tracks and many more.

A WAR OF ARBITERS.

Between New York and Chicago there is going on an amusing interchange of Chinese courtesies. F. Hopkinson Smith, "social arbiter of New York," says: "Our gentlemen are rude and roystering. We lack the pleasant poise and gentle politeness of you honorable gentlemen of Chicago." To which statement Mr. Eames MacVeagh, "social arbiter of Chicago," responds: "No. Our miserable men are not better than the honorable gentlemen of New York. In Chicago we are conceited, inhospitable, unintelligent, careless toward women, neglectful of the pleasures of the fair sex, and so crude in conversation that we talk of prize fights, shows and automobiles."

Let it be understood that the title, "social arbiter," is not of our coining, nor have we conferred it upon the personages named. We take it as it comes to us from the contending cities and use it in good faith. After all, though it sounds high, it may not mean much. A superintendent of skating rinks in Hades would not have much authority, and yet be more potent than an arbiter of manners in either New York or Chicago. But let that pass. The important point is that in each case the arbiter talks directly contrary to the prevailing talk winds of his community. "We are not tender and gentle like you of Chicago," says Arbiter Smith. "Nay, nay, you are sweeter dears than we are," says Arbiter MacVeagh. It is the zephyrs amid the blizzards.

The Chicago arbiter has the wider range of vision of the two. In asserting that the New York man is superior to him of Chicago in mildness of manners and poesy of speech, he does not admit that the New Yorker is anything that can be justly deemed "classy." He is quoted as saying: "I would suggest that both Chicago and New York men read Lord Chesterfield's letters to his son. Then perhaps they might learn the value of politeness." The suggestion is good. Perhaps it will be permitted us to offer a final suggestion, that while reading Chesterfield, they come to St. Louis where the true code is practiced, and thus get an air "de bon ton" as well as the theory of la grande politesse."

◆◆◆

It will be noted that it is to be called the "Rockefeller Foundation," and not the Rockefeller Restitution.

THE VITAL POINT.

Opponents of the bridge arbitrary who are battling with the bridge and Terminal combine for its abolition should not be diverted from their effort to obtain this concession from the railroads direct by appeals to refer the matter to the Interstate Commerce Commission. These appeals are made by the Terminal's advocates and supporters for the purpose of weakening the position of the opposition. Their prime object is to get the desired terminal privileges granted while the case is before the commission.

In the matter of the arbitrary St. Louis has nothing to refer to the Interstate Commerce Commission. The difference between St. Louis and the railroads is not a question of rates. It is a question of a special arbitrary charge for bridge and terminal service by the railroads which own the bridges and terminals. There is no question of right or wrong to be decided by the commission. We know the arbitrary is wrong. The railroads know it is wrong. They have admitted it by partially abolishing it on the ground that it was unjust, unusual and discriminating.

The Interstate Commmerce Commission might decide that a terminal charge does not come within its jurisdiction in which event we would be where we are now. The commission might regard the case as a rate-question and determine whether or not it is reasonable from a mileage standpoint. As St. Louis contends that any part of the arbitrary is not only unreasonable, but unjust, there would be no satisfactory conclusion. There are many ways in which the vital issue of the arbitrary might be evaded by the sharp attorneys of the railroads.

Meanwhile if the opponents of the arbitrary agreed to refer the whole question to the Interstate Commerce Commission the reason for refusing further grants to the Terminal would disappear. There is no objection to a ruling from the Interstate Commerce Commisison, but the vital point of the abolition of special terminal charges on St. Louis traffic must be settled for all time by St. Louis and the railroads. With the arbitrary abolished the rates can be adjusted on a reasonable basis. The rate-question is distinct from the arbitrary question.

There is no room to doubt that when the railroad authorities are clearly informed of the situation they will give St. Louis a square deal.

Myron T. Herrick, ex-Governor of Ohio and a member of the last Republican convention, says the postal savings bank pledge was "a political rather than an economic expedient." It is wonderful how clever these Republicans are in explaining things.

A BROAD STRADDLE.

A few days ago the so-called "Progressive" wing of the Republican party in South Dakota held a conference to arrange a campaign for the primaries in June. We are told it took them four hours of heart-to-heart talk to reach agreement as to what they should stand for and what kick against. Finally the dove of peace flew in with a platform in her bill; not that the dove was big; the platform was small. Here are two planks of it that are worth all the time it will take anybody to read them:

> We commend President Taft for his reiterated declarations of loyalty to the Roosevelt principles of progressive Republicanism and pledge his administration the support of the Progressive Republicans of South Dakota in its efforts to obtain the enactment of legislation embodying these principles.
>
> The dominating issue in the coming campaign is the wresting of control of national legislation from special interests intrenched behind Speaker Cannon of the House and Leader Aldrich of the Senate and their supporters. It is not sufficient that Speaker Cannon be retired. It is essential that a successor be elected who is committed to and is a supporter of progressive principles.

This commendation of Taft for his "declarations" of loyalty to Roosevelt principles, accompanied by the assertion that the dominant issue of the time is that of overthrowing the special interests intrenched behind Cannon and Aldrich, is a thing of many aspects. From one point of view it is political hypocrisy; from another it is an absurdity; from a third, it is pathetic. To stand pat with Taft and kick against Cannon, how shall it be done? Not the supple circus athlete who recently astonished the world by turning a double forward somersault in a leap from the floor could perform the feat. Even at the time their conference was going on Taft was placing the patronage of the presidency at the disposal of Cannon and Aldrich in their fight against the insurgents.

We have now arrived, fellow citizens, at a juncture where Senator Davis of Arkansas himself admits that he sometimes talks too much.

FARSIGHTED CANADA.

American plans for waterways development seem insignificant in scope when compared to the elaborate, comprehensive and far-sighted schemes Canada has made and is about to execute. The Canadian Pacific Railway and the Grand Trunk Pacific, now under construction, give Canada facilities for rail transportation adequate to all the requirements of even the distant future.

Before the latter is completed, however, Canada will have well under way the long-discussed ship canal connecting the Great Lakes with the St. Lawrence through Lake Nipissing and the Ottawa River and giving continuous deep-water navigation from Fort William on Lake Superior to Liverpool. The project involves an outlay of $100,000,000 and perhaps $150,000,000. In commercial value—connecting the great wheat fields of the Northwest with Europe's greatest grain market—it is a greater project than the Panama Canal. When this route is completed Liverpool will be only 118 miles farther from Lake Huron than from New York.

An English syndicate, headed by Sir Robert W. Perks, with its bonds guaranteed by the Canadian Government, will do this work. And Canada has still in prospect a canal from Lake Winnipeg to Hudson Bay, which would bring Liverpool within 2966 miles of Winnipeg, or a little nearer than Philadelphia.

The commercial significance of these projects is obvious. They are well understood by students of transportation problems and the "strategy of trade." Only a Congress, blind to about everything except the perpetuation of party domination, fails to comprehend. Canada, with one-tenth of the population of the United States, is building securely for the future. She grasps problems we ignore and solves them while we talk of depleted natural resources. New York potters away at a 1000-ton barge canal to cost $100,000,000, as a means of preserving the predominance of New York City as the point of export. We talk about a navigable Mississippi. In the meantime Canada acts.

SETTLING THE TERMINAL PROBLEM.

If terminal charges in addition to regular traffic rates are not already a prohibitive tariff on the extension of the trade of any city on which they are levied, they must become so unless completely absorbed or abolished.

III.

As a monopoly system, the present St. Louis Terminal Association was organized to prevent other railroads from competing with the Gould lines. This is locally important now only because Terminal charges as a local tax on St. Louis business have kept the city from the full use of its natural advantages and opportunities in competing with other cities. In railroad business the terminal rates on St. Louis business have operated against railroad business as a whole. They check it at the center.

It is not a matter of theory, but of history that the terminal charges have this effect. The history goes back to 1882 in St. Louis and there is no break in it between that year and 1910. In 1882 Dr. William Taussig, as general manager of the Eads Bridge, then controlled by Jay Gould, planned the Terminal system. He had what he himself has explained over his signature as "the underlying idea" that otherwise all the roads except the Missouri Pacific system and the Wabash would handle their own business in their own way without control by the Eads Bridge system. He feared the city would be entered from the East by an increasing number of railroads, perhaps building bridges of their own and using their own terminals, in sharp competition with the rates of the St. Louis bridge and the other Gould terminal properties. In his own language, he "could not close his eyes to the fact" that the managers of other roads had "suspicions and fears" which "even if groundless, would be apt to divert business from the bridge and make other roads look around for other avenues of river transfer, and thus seriously impair its revenues." When he "frankly submitted" this to Jay Gould, he found that "Mr. Gould was too sagacious a man not to see the import of the facts." He approved the Taussig plans, and the result was the monopoly agreement of October, 1889, with six roads combined as lessees of the bridge and tunnel, etc., guaranteeing the payment of the fixed charges and the interest on bonds issued by companies preceding them.

Taking the facts as Dr. Taussig states them, he and Jay Gould were both too "sagacious" between 1882 and 1889 to allow St. Louis to have more than one bridge if it could be helped or to leave other roads, not controlled then by the Gould interests, an open and inviting opportunity to establish themselves in the city on an independent basis with the city fully open to railroad business. This is the agreed case in history. This sagacity succeeded. Its success meant closing St. Louis against independent entry by new lines of railroad. It was intended to mean the restriction of the city to the use of a single bridge. It was intended to perpetuate terminal tolls on St. Louis business and on railroad business. In the history of the case as Dr. Taussig wrote it to illustrate the meaning of sagacity, he complains of the Vandalia road that after it had entered fully into the general plan as "the most ardent promoter of the scheme" (which was to "cork up" the city) it refused to sign and drew out, because it was "trading" for an opportunity to use another bridge.

The agreed fact, in the case as stated by those who corked up the city, is that it was not corked up for its own benefit or for that of railroad business in general. It was a result of the astonishing sagacity of Messrs. Taussig and Gould, combining unsagacious roads to compel the city to pay fixed charges and profits it could not have been compelled to pay otherwise, while at the same time these charges were acting from the center out against the increase of railroad business.

On this record, St. Louis cannot do business and pay a local tax of any kind whatever on the increasing terminals its railroads need now and will need in the next 10 years. Railroad experts all agree that they cannot do the business of the country without more room for the ends of their tracks in St. Louis and other terminal cities. Any sort of sagacity now which is not that of blind monopoly can see the point.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

For the Child's Sake.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I have read on divers occasions the marriage differences between Rev. Earl Hewson and his wife, and for the sake of common reason and religious teachings, why don't they make up? It is not a question of who is right or who is wrong, but for the sake of their little tot, whose future is at stake, and also for church principles. He married his wife "for better or for worse," so it is up to him to abide by his own deliberate act. She, likewise.

THOMAS R. PULLIS.

To Whom It May Concern.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

If people truly declare the value of their possessions, promptly pay State, county, municipal and school taxes thereon, they will earn the honor of being counted among honest people, and become fellow-rocks in the only foundation. Robbing the public school fund to endow other institutions is not philanthropy. Robbing Peter to pay Paul pays nobody. The American people are human; they are not hungry pups; therefore, throw them no bones.

FRANK MAGINN.

Cooperative Heating.

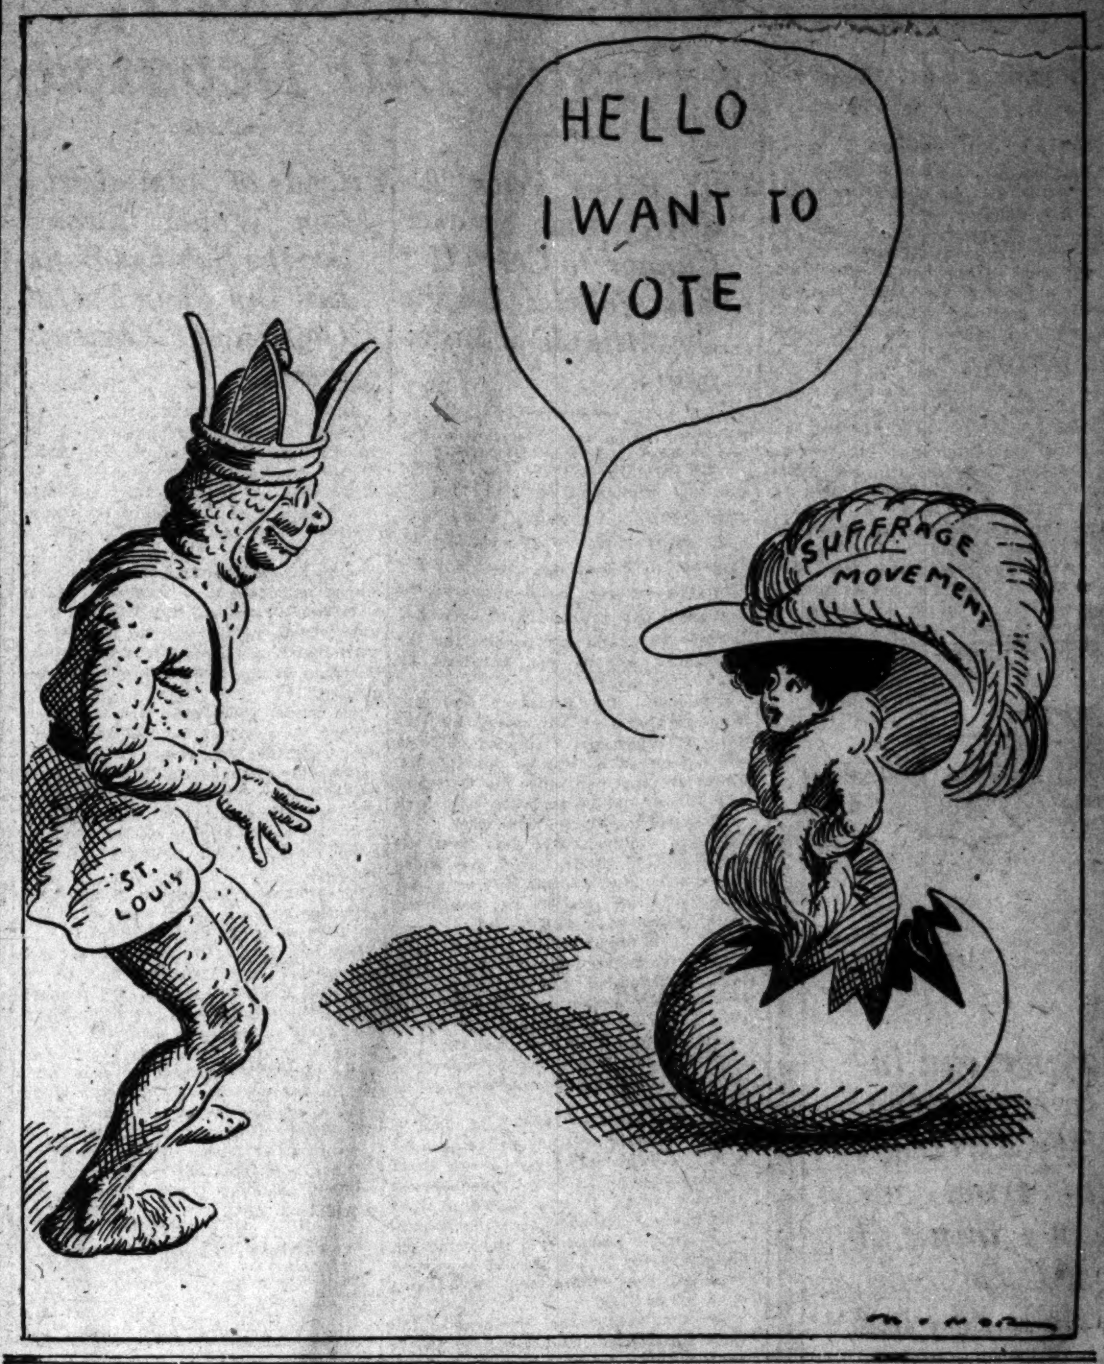
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Why is it that small towns in the North and East can be heated from a single heating plant, while we stick to the old wasteful methods of individual heating? Hundreds of big, airy residences stand idle in the center of the city. People are crowding into apartments. Why? Because the modern heating plant is too much for the average woman, and the reliable janitor has not as yet been discovered. I wonder how many families this winter woke up in a cold house? Is it lack of enterprise, or is it because "big business" refuses to allow any new company to secure a franchise to use the streets?

Any man who has ever tried living in the same house with his wife and his mother-in-law will tell you co-operative living isn't a success, but co-operative kitchens, heating and refrigerating plants would help to solve some of our problems.

BUSINESS WOMAN.

LOOK WHO'S HERE!



A MASSACHUSETTS INSURGENT.

From the Boston Herald.

Massachusetts Republicans have become accustomed to hearing plain truths from Speaker Walker, but he showed less regard for "regularity" at the dinner of the Republican State Central Committee than ever before. He qualified as a full "insurgent," not necessarily of the Western brand, nor even of the brand which has been parading in Massachusetts recently, but as a representative of that more numerous insurrection within the Republican ranks, which has been going on in Massachusetts and in other New England states for some time, with less fireworks than are displayed in the West, but with none the less earnestness. When Speaker Walker protested against machine domination in the party conventions, when he asked for fair play for the people in the matter of tariff revision, and in the investigation of food prices, and when he insisted that the party must once more gain the confidence of the people by proving itself worthy, he may have been uttering treason to the "regular" organization, but he was uttering truth, and good advice.

ROSTAND AND TOM D'URFEY.

Correspondence New York Evening Post.

The production of M. Rostand's "Chantecler" gives additional piquancy to a notice, in the Dictionary of National Biography, of a somewhat similar venture on the English stage 200 years ago. In the account of Tom D'Uurfey we find:

In his burlesque, "Wonders in the Sun; or, the Kingdom of the Birds," a comic opera * * * he brought on the stage actors dressed as parrots, crows, etc., and the business was farcical in the extreme. This justified the remark of Dryden, that "You don't know my friend Tom as well as I do. I'll answer for it he will write worse yet!"

NAVAL EXTRAVAGANCE.

From the New York World.

The naval appropriation for 1910 is more than double the naval expenditure in the year of the Spanish War. It is 10 times as great as in 1886, five times as great as in 1896. If we begin turning 16,000-ton battleships into junk by building ships of 32,000 tons to cost $18,000,000 each, even the present vast expenditure will soon be doubled.

Where is the process to stop? When will the war mania of the Hobsons and Roosevelts cease from inventing new alarms, fomenting new national jealousies, planning new extravagances?

JUST A MINUTE.

GOOD-BYE, TEDDY DEAR.

(Tune: "Dolly Gray.")

We never shall forget you over here, Teddy dear—
We never shall forget you till we die.
We're happy to have met you, and we had a bully year—
It is hard to say good-bye.

Good-bye, Ted! We won't forget you.
Once the jungle was a yawn,
But every moment since we met you
There's been something going on—
Good-bye, Ted! We won't forget you,
There's been something going on—
And it will be dull again, you bet you,
As soon as you are gone.

It has been a year of terror and of terrible to-do,
And there scarce is one among us that has laughed;
But at that we think we've had it on the creatures in the Zoo
Down at Washington with Taft.

Good-bye, Teddy—you're a wonder!
Once the day was long and drear;
But ever since you came, by thunder!
There's been something doing here—
Good-bye, Teddy! You're a wonder,
There's been something doing here—
And the like of it will not be under
Another million year.

You have done with jungle hunting and with trekking through The Thirst—
We shall never, never see you any more;
If we do we don't mind saying that we hope we see you first —
O, good-bye, Theodore!

Good-bye, Ted! We won't forget you—
We have had a bully year.
Good-bye, Ted! We're glad we met you—
Nothing like you's happened here.
Good-bye, Ted! We won't forget you,
Nothing like you's happened here—
O, we're all busted up, you bet you—
So good-bye, Teddy dear!

NEW BOOKS.

"The Second Winning of the West," by Simon Guggenheim, is the romance of the Smelting Trust, prefaced by an appreciation of the explorers who discovered that part of the United States for the Guggenheims.

"Abbie," by Stanley Waterloo, is the story of a primitive woman, the sister of "Ab."

"The Last Chance," by a Boston author, winds up the "chance" series which began with "The Fighting Chance." It was the only "chance" left.

"Wonder of Wonders" is a short story by William de Morgan.

ABOUT BILLBOARDS.

If the Supreme Court has included in its decision an attempt to explain why nobody likes billboards it will have rendered popular curiosity a service as well.

We have a theory about it, but we don't know what it is worth. We have thought that the chief opposition to billboards must emanate from property owners who dislike them because they are painted so often.

This may be wrong, as we have feared; but one cannot help noticing that billboards as a rule are kept freshly painted, whereas the buildings around them almost always need paint very badly.

It just seemed to us that they established a dangerous precedent from the viewpoint of property owners.

What do you think—if you ever do think?

P.—Marco Bozzaris is the title of the verses in which "the Turk lay dreaming of the hour," etc. Try Public Library for the complete poem.

G. A. S.—If there are no symptoms beyond the marks on the skin they are probably of no consequence; they may be caused by rough underwear.

A. J. L.—It is possible for a corporation to hire men to raise a disturbance to throw blame on strikers, but we have no certain evidence that it is done.

ALICE.—To reduce bust, wear for several months a length of silk rubber, to be had at rubber store. (See rolling exercise in Home Section of March 6).

DULL.—In Public Library reference room you can read all about the art of printing and can easily write 100 words about it. You are dull because you have not read enough.

J. M. S.—Liquor seller selling to habitual drunkard, after having been notified by wife, father, mother, brother, sister, child or guardian of such person, forfeits, for every offense, $50 to $500, and license.

EDWARDSVILLE.—It is not necessary in Illinois or Missouri for a couple to be divorced in the State in which the marriage license was issued. Divorce is granted at any time when sufficient grounds are shown.

L. P. K.—The stock can be held indefinitely in present shape, but in the event of dividend being declared it would be paid to party in whose name certificate is issued. Best and safest thing to do in this matter is to consult a lawyer.

L. H.—How much a man getting $125 a month should allow his wife depends upon the expenses of their living. He should allow her all that she needs, if possible. Neither should dress extravagantly or have foolish expenses. Don't forget the "rainy day."

OLD SOLDIER.—Lying on the side or back and kicking actively five minutes relieves sciatica. Petroleum used internally and externally two months cured a miner. A physician cured himself with petroleum in three days, "finishing off with an infusion of guaiacum wood."

S.—"Peanutstab" is played by placing a number of unshelled peanuts on a tray, and giving each contestant a long hatpin, which must be held firmly by the head. At a signal the players endeavor to stab the peanuts and lift them off the tray. The one who secures the most peanuts wins the prize.

FIEND.—Cigarette "cures": Carry a bag of raisins, sultanas or currants in the pocket and chew constantly. When one wishes to smoke let him chew a small piece of licorice root. Keeping this up for weeks. Chewing gum has also been recommended. But why be a mollycoddle? Why not try your own strong will."

MOTHER.—To clean bearskin (cloth) cloak, dip in soft, warm water, then rub soap on it with the fingers. Rub till a lather is formed—a good lather—rinse the soap off, get clean warm water and rinse till all the suds are out; hang out of doors to dry. Do not blue the garment. It needs no ironing; simply shake well and if desired brush with a soft brush.

J. J. B.—To put in all the window openings stated you would be required to build five feet from your neighbor's line if an ordinary flat building is contemplated, but if a residence of one family the same does not apply. All the ordinances and information you desire will be cheerfully supplied by Building Commissioner (City Hall). Space does not permit us to go into all the details.

SUBSCRIBER.—The best way to round out hollow cheeks is to gain generally in flesh. Do this by drinking milk, eating salad dressing containing much olive oil and other nutritious food. Then massage by putting the thumb inside the cheek and rubbing the outside with the finger tips, using a good cream. This and puffing out the cheeks with the breath are said to gradually round the face.

Reflections of A Bachelor Girl

Mirrored for the Post-Dispatch

By HELEN ROWLAND.

WASTING your youth in cheap flirtations is like eating a ham sandwich before dinner—it spoils your appetite for the real love-feast.

Distance lends so much enchantment to the average man that the longer you are married to one the more distance you are apt to give him.

In art a little reputation is more to be desired than much talent and a small check exceedeth great honors.

There is this difference between a wasp and a gossip, that a wasp won't sting you if you let him alone.

It may take three generations to make a "gentleman," but one flirtation and a bottle of cheap wine will make a poet out of almost any man.

"There is no pocket in a shroud," but that won't make much difference to a "good fellow," because he probably won't have anything to put in it when he dies, anyway.

"Good fellows" as a class believe in a personal devil, because most of them have been married to at least one of that kind.

Poets may sing of the blush that "comes and goes," but the kind every woman is looking for nowadays is "the blush that won't rub off" on a warm day.

A poem in the magazine is worth two in the editor's waste-basket.

How to Be Popular

By Orison Swett Marden.

EVERYONE would like to have a gracious manner, to be popular, to be loved by everybody. It is a legitimate ambition to be well thought of and admired by our fellow men. Yet the majority of us are not willing to make any great sacrifice to acquire this art of arts; in fact, we are all the time doing things which repel others and which inevitably tend to make us unpopular, says Orison Swett Marden in Success.

We have to take infinite pains to succeed in our vocations or any accomplishment worth while, and should we expect to gain the air of arts, the charm of personality, the power to please, to attract, to interest, without making great efforts?

Selfishness in all its forms is always and everywhere despised. No one likes a person who is bound up in himself, who is constantly thinking how he can advance his own interests, and promote his own comfort.

The secret of popularity is to make everybody you meet feel that you are especially interested in him. If you really feel kindly toward others, if you sincerely wish to please, you will have no difficulty in doing so. But if you are cold, indifferent, retiring, silent, selfish; if you are all wrapped up in yourself and think only of what may advance your own interests or increase your own comfort, you never can become popular.

HOW GERMANS SAVE.

Some striking indications of the German workingmen's prosperity are contained in the Prussian savings bank statistics. The deposits in the kingdom, which comprises only two-thirds of the empire, totaled $2,393,250,000 at the end of 1908. Deposits during that year were $112,500,000 more than in 1907, and the excess of deposits over withdrawals amounted to $30,000,000. The greatest increase of deposits over withdrawals was registered in the heart of industrial Germany, the Rhine province and Westphalia contributing $19,750,000 and $15,000,000 respectively.

Dishes You Never Ate.

AMONG the most delicious tidbits in South Africa is lion's flesh, which is in high favor among aborigines and certain classes of Boer trekkers. The tiger is eaten in many parts of India, not only for the edible qualities, but also because it is supposed to impart strength and cunning.

Bear's flesh, and especially smoked bear's tongue, are most expensive delicacies in Germany. Though many Europeans have declared it tastes like soft leather and mucilage, the flesh of the elephant is a favorite dish in Africa and India. A baked elephant's foot is a choice morsel, says the Troy Budget.

In upper Egypt and in Siam crocodile flesh is publicly sold as food, while in Santo Domingo and parts of Central America the cayman is eaten, roasted or boiled.

The green lizard, though Americans usually associate him with slime, is enthusiastically relished by many in the south of Italy and Spain. But they are not in it with the Greeks, who do not really relish their soup unless it has in it bits of adder.

They are also very fond of the mud tortoise and drink its blood and cook its flesh and eggs. Of course the frog is well known in France and on the Continent, but it is by no means a stranger to the American palate.

In the dessert line it is also possible to enjoy a strange assortment. Rosebuds boiled in sugar and made into a preserve are eaten by Arabians, while in China candied rosebuds and jasmine flowers are equally popular.

The common yellow lily that grows in marshes and ponds is utilized by the Turks as the main ingredient of an agreeable conserve which tastes something like brandy. Candied violets are, of course, very common in France, while in Roumania and Bulgaria many flowers are used for flavoring.

HIS RETAINER.

In a suit tried in a Virginia town a young lawyer was addressing the jury on a point of law when good-naturedly he turned to the opposing counsel, a man of much experience, and asked:

"That's right, I believe, Col. Hopkins?"

Whereupon Hopkins, with a smile of conscious superiority, replied:

"Sir, I have an office in Richmond wherein I shall be delighted to enlighten you on any point of law for a consideration."

The youthful attorney, not in the least abashed, took from his pocket a half-dollar piece, which he offered to Col. Hopkins with this remark:

WHO'S GOT A COLD?

Do you remember the good old days when the doctors used to "bleed" everybody, no matter what ailed them? When typhoid patients were heaped and smothered in woolen blankets and denied cold water? When catarrh and sore throat were treated to the tortures of salt water and glycerine?

Well, it's all over now. The doctor bleeds only the pocketbook. The fever patient is comforted with cooling baths. And catarrh has found its nemesis in mild and gentle antiseptic. Right thing for catarrh and cold today is the mild antiseptic mixture of the oil of eucalyptus, an unctuous base, phenol, and a little lavender, blended in proper proportions—known to pharmacy as King's antiseptic catarrh cream. THE KINGDOM OF EARTH

A Novel of Modern Romance

By ANTHONY PARTRIDGE

(Copyright, 1909 by Little, Brown & Co.)

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

The beautiful Grace Pellisier, a young American actress, falls in love with a dashing European whom she meets at a pleasure resort. She meets him again in London, where he is known as John Peters. She is startled to learn that he, or a man who is his exact double, is the Crown Prince of Bergeland. After hearing that the Crown Prince has left London she receives a note from John Peters. Curiosity causes her to invite him to her flat. There she confronts him with printed accounts of his reckless living. He admits that he is the Crown Prince and that the stories are true of the person of whom they are written. Unknown to the Prince, Grace Pellisier is member of a revolutionary society sworn to kill kings. A plot is laid to trap the Prince as he leaves her apartment. The fact that her clock has stopped causes her to send the Prince away at the exact hour set for his destruction. An attempt is made to assassinate him in the corridor. He overpowers his assailant and leads him back to Grace's room.

CHAPTER VII (Continued.)

SIR WILLIAM shrugged his shoulders. "I considered," he remarked, "that we had been most frank."

"Up to a certain point, yes," John Peters admitted; "but what are you? Who are you? A society, or just one or two cranks?"

Sir William was silent for several moments. He kept his eyes fixed upon John Peters, and the expression upon his face during those few seconds underwent a remarkable change. All its benevolence, its somewhat middle-class respectability, seemed to vanish. His eyes grew brighter and keener. It was the face now of a dangerous man.

"Prince," he said, "you are not the sort of person I expected to find you. You have humor, and you have pluck. It has pleased you to turn this affair into a sort of comedy, and we have been content to fall in with your whim. But the time has come for us to speak seriously. What was your object in making Defarge bring you here? We have been your judges, and we have condemned you to die. The first skirmish has ended in your favor. You have a certain measure of advantage for the moment. It cannot alter the end, but it would be as well for us to understand one another. How do you intend to use that advantage? What is to be the end of this interview?"

"Terms," John Peters answered, "if you will accept them."

"Well?"

"Give me six months' safety. I am tired of dodging assassins. For six months' safety, I leave you here undisturbed and unquestioned."

"We grant you that six months," Sir William answered, "provided only that your uncle—who, I believe, is in excellent health—lives so long. You see, we do not in any case intend to allow you to ascend the throne of Bergeland."

John Peters nodded. Then he rose slowly to his feet. "Let it be so," he answered. "I accept. For six months, then, we are free of one another. At the end of that time, war if you like."

"War it must be," Sir William said gravely.

John Peters rose and bowed indifferently. Then, for a moment, his eyes traveled over the heads of the three men, to where Grace still sat in the easy chair, with her face partly averted. It seemed so short a time since they two had stood together before the window, and life had suddenly seemed filled with a rare and unexpected sweetness. It was the same room, almost the same spot. A sudden wave of anger swept up in the man.

"War, by all means," he declared, almost fiercely. "The greatest causes can be debased by false methods. The world will never be set free by the assassin's knife or the throwing of bombs."

CHAPTER VIII.

IN a small but lofty writing chamber leading out of a great library, an elderly gentleman in a dark morning suit, with a large pink rose in his buttonhole, stood looking out of the window. He had a gray beard, gray hair parted in the center, a high forehead and long, powerfully shaped features. He was smoking a cigar, and apparently looking out across the park, but he turned continually toward the door, as though expecting some one. It was opened at last by a man in dark livery, who stood at one side and respectfully announced a visitor:

"His Royal Highness, the Prince of Bergeland!"

The man who called himself John Peters strolled in, and after a formal bow, shook hands with his uncle. "Hope you're well, sir," he said.

The king frowned. "I am well enough," he said, "but you—if all the accounts of your doings are true—you ought to have one foot in the grave."

"You shouldn't believe all you see in the papers, sir," the young man answered carelessly. "I never look at them myself."

"It's a pity that you don't," the king answered. "You might learn to be a little more careful. Your doings are becoming perfectly scandalous. What's this about Mademoiselle Cara and the duchess' diamonds?"

The young man shrugged his shoulders. "So the journalists got hold of that, did they?" he remarked. "Upon my word, nothing seems sacred from them nowadays."

The king stood up and moved back toward the window. The square outside was crowded with passers-by, for the palace stood in an enclosure fronting a great public thoroughfare. He called to the prince to stand by his side. "You see all those people," he said gravely; "my subjects, yours some day. Ten years ago such a thing as a republican was unknown in this city. Today every third man who passes there is a revolutionist."

The prince was interested. He looked out thoughtfully upon the constant stream of people. "Well," he said, "I for one don't blame them. If I had to pay to support a royal house, I should be a revolutionist myself."

The king frowned heavily. "This is not a joking matter," he said. "There is a power growing up right under our eyes here which threatens our very existence. There is more underneath it all, too; I suspect a deliberate plot against the monarchy. Bernhardt says little, but I know that he is anxious."

John Peters shrugged his shoulders. "We must take our chances, I suppose," he said.

"Rubbish!" the king exclaimed emphatically. "I sent for you because I want you to understand that I consider you largely responsible for what is going on."

John Peters looked at him keenly. "What do you mean?" he asked.

"Simply this," his uncle continued. "The capital rings with your name and the reports of your scandalous doings. All this is what those people work upon. They keep an account of your extravagances, of your mad doings in every city you enter. They ask one another whether they are to pay for them. They dare to put these things into print."

"One must amuse oneself," the prince answered. "You yourself, my dear uncle"——

"That will do," the king said sharply. "At any rate, I do not flaunt my weaknesses. So far as I know, in this country you lead a decent life. The moment you leave it you seem to lose your head altogether. I sent for you because I am tired of warnings. I want you to understand this: There is a strong party growing up throughout the country that does not intend to be ruled by a scoundrel. You may even succeed, if you go on, in bringing about a revolution."

The prince was silent for a moment. "Yes," he said thoughtfully, "I suppose I am unpopular here. But a revolution—it always needs a genius to bring about that."

"The genius may appear," the king said dryly. "The man and the moment generally arrive together. There is only one thing you can do to restore your popularity."

"And that?"

"Marry."

John Peters smiled. "Whom? Hergmann's daughter?—he is the head of the People's party, isn't he? It would be a diplomatic alliance."

"Don't be a fool, John. You must marry either a German or an English princess."

John Peters shook his head. "Impossible," he declared, "I have acquired your wonderful taste as regards the sex. To save my throne I couldn't marry a woman with thick ankles."

"You are a downright fool this morning, John," the king declared angrily. "I request that you abandon this tone once and for all."

"All right," John Peters answered, "but I won't marry the Princess Ida!"

The king laughed softly. "It wasn't proposed that you should," he answered. "Bernhardt and I will go into the matter in a day or two. I wanted to warn you. And I want you also to understand this: I will not have you going about the city unattended and incognito. It is undignified, and likely to do you harm."

"Anything else?" the young man inquired, with the air of a martyr.

"There were several more things, but I have forgotten them," the king answered. "I am tired today."

John Peters regarded him anxiously. "You are feeling quite well, sir, I hope?" he inquired.

"I don't want to have to," the prince answered. "The fact of it is, your health and mine are rather intimately connected just now."

"What do you mean?" the king asked. "Intimately connected, eh?"

The prince nodded. "Fellow tried to assassinate me in London last week," he remarked. "I came off best, and we made terms. His employers, whoever they were, give me six months' grace before they try again, provided you live for the six months."

The king regarded his nephew in angry amazement. "Is this a joke, sir?" he demanded.

"It was no joke for me," John Peters answered grimly. "It happened exactly as I say."

"But where were you? There was nothing about it in the papers."

John Peters sighed. "I'm afraid I must confess to being alone—and unattended," he admitted. "I had been calling upon a lady. We won't say anything more about it, as it is rather a painful subject. I managed to turn the tables upon them, but things might easily have gone the other way."

"You are a fool to expose yourself to such risks," the king declared. "Tell me exactly what happened."

John Peters told the story, making slight mention of Grace. The king listened eagerly, frowning but attentive.

"Do you suppose," he asked, "that these people were inspired from Bergeland?"

John Peters shrugged his shoulders. "Most likely," he answered. "I asked them why they didn't have a go at you."

"The devil you did!" the king exclaimed. "How dared you put such a thought into their heads?"

"Oh, you're safe enough," John Peters answered. "They explained that they were not professional anarchists, and a king took too much getting at."

His Majesty walked restlessly up and down the room. All his life he had been troubled with the fear of assassination. "I will tell you one thing, John," he said, stopping abruptly. "Whoever rules here during the next 20 years is going to have trouble. They say that the Republicans will have a majority in the House of Assembly. What will happen then I do not know."

"They will cut down the household emoluments, without a doubt," John Peters remarked. "I really don't think I'd better get married. I might not be able to support my wife."

A groom of the chambers, with murmurs of apology, placed a small note in the king's hand. He read it hastily and crushed it up between his fingers. "We will drive together tomorrow morning, John," he said. "For the moment I have affairs to attend to."

John Peters paid his respectful adieu and departed. Crossing the library, escorted by the groom of the chambers, he passed a lady, heavily veiled. Her dark eyes sought his for a moment, and then dropped. Momentarily curious, he looked after her, but she had disappeared in the king's room. John Peters smiled a little bitterly as he left the palace.

"So we pay the great tax," he muttered, "young and old, rich and poor! They turn the wheels, and we spin or jump for their pleasure, like monkeys! Curse all women!"

He entered his motor car, which was waiting at the palace gates. "Drive to the office of the Chief of the Police," he ordered.

Corn Meal for the Hair

A young lady dropped into the parlors of a Fifth avenue hair specialist the other day, says The Beauty Magazine. The Frenchwoman in charge condescended to tell some of the secrets of the profession. "My pompadour treatment is the most successful thing in vogue," she said. "The hair is taken down, shaken out and wet with gasoline. It dries quickly, and when put up is found free from grease and dust. The gasoline should be used with the greatest care, and never at night, or in presence of a lighted gas jet or lamp. It takes a very few drops, the quantity depending on the color and the texture of the hair. With blond hair I follow this up with the cornmeal brushing, a very coarse grade of yellow cornmeal being shaken on the hair and then carefully brushed out. It is astonishing to see how fluffy the hair appears after this treatment, and for days it remains in position, requiring no rats, puffs or braids." Asked what was the safest and best home preparation for keeping the hair healthy and restoring prematurely gray hair to its natural color, "Madame" spoke very highly of the liquid tonic and hair food known as HAY'S HAIR HEALTH. This preparation has been on the market over 20 years, and can be found at all good drug stores in 50-cent and dollar bottles. Its great success comes from the fact that it nourishes the roots of the hair. Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., 6th and Washington av.—ADV.

How to Save $2 on Cough Medicine by Making It at Home

Cough medicines, as a rule, are mostly syrup. To make the best syrup, take a pint of Granulated Sugar, add ½ pint warm water, and stir about 2 minutes.

Get two and one-half ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth), put it in a clean pint bottle, and fill up with the Granulated Sugar Syrup. This makes a full pint of unequaled cough syrup, for about 54 cents. Keeps perfectly. You couldn't buy as much ready-made cough syrup for $2.50.

This home-made remedy is pleasant to take, and usually stops even the most obstinate cough in twenty-four hours. It is splendid, also, for colds, whooping cough, bronchial ailments, etc. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

The Sugar Syrup is an excellent sedative. The Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway White Pine Extract, rich in all the healing elements of Norwegian pine. Be sure to use the real Pinex itself. Your druggist has it or can easily get it for you.

Strained honey can be used instead of the syrup, and makes a very fine honey and pine tar cough syrup.—ADV.

A MODERN PROPOSAL.

He: You know, Celeste, what modern living means. You read the papers, of course?

She: Yes, George. And I hear all about it at home. Nothing but high prices.

He: That's right. Everything is up but salaries and carfare.

She: I guess that's true. Mme. Gore won't touch a waist now for anything under $4.

He: My mother and sister go to somebody else, but I'm sure they must be all alike. Anyway, father does a good deal more kicking than he used to do.

She: Yes, and rents are way up for everything that's desirable.

He: I know. I've been around. It's discouraging, isn't it?

She: Awfully.

He (after a little pause): Of course it wouldn't be fair to ask you to marry me.

She: And I'm sure it wouldn't be fair to you if I accepted your offer.

He: By Jove, Celeste, you're an angel for unselfishness.

She: I—I love you too well to be a b-burden to you.

He: Confound the consequences! Who cares for high prices? Let's get married anyway!

She: Y-yes, George.

QUITS THE FORCE RATHER THAN DOFF DAPPER RAIMENT

ADORNED THE HOTELS

Special Officer in Swagger Clothes Cut a Figure in the Lobbies.

The Chief Thursday ordered Cahill to report at the Page boulevard station for duty in uniform. He has been working in citizen's clothes, first in the Central District and later in the Newstead avenue district.

Cahill did not report as ordered and instead sent in his resignation.

Thus was the chief foiled in his expressed determination to "put a uniform on Cahill." The Chief's reason for wishing to do this was his belief that Cahill would do more police work if he gave less time and thought to the cut of his trousers and the set of his coat in the back.

Cahill Charges Persecution.

Cahill told a Post-Dispatch reporter Friday that he did not believe his taste in clothes was responsible for his transfer.

"I have bought one suit of clothes in two years," he said. "That does not indicate that I was a flashy dresser. I have no diamonds or expensive jewelry to create jealousy. If I was careful in my dress it should be more to my credit than if I had worn a celluloid collar and washed it with soap occasionally.

"I bear no ill feeling against any member of the police department, but resigned because I believed my transfer was through spite and not for any reason. I would rather the fight against me had been made in the open and charges preferred. Then I would have had a chance to defend myself.

"My trouble dates back to the time several policemen were discharged following the graft investigation. I had worked with the men discharged and was their friend. I spoke to them on the street when I met them. Chief of Detectives Smith called me to his office at one time and told me not to talk to the discharged officers. I was not working under Chief Smith and told him I would speak to my friends regardless of the consequence.

"Since that time I have been annoyed in petty ways and am convinced that this ding-dong method caused Commissioners Jones and Bland to be against me. That is where the real order for my transfer came from and I believe it was an effort to harass me so that I would resign."

Brought Danny Naughton Back.

Cahill is the special officer who brought Danny Naughton home from New Orleans as a boodle witness, after the reluctant Naughton had sought to lose himself in the Crescent City paddock.

For a time he was all there was to the "morality squad." While on his duty, he acquired a fondness for seats in hotel lobbies, which he has not since been quite able to overcome. He was before the board three months ago on charges of neglecting his duty.

He managed to endure the conduct of his superiors so long as he was allowed to dress as he pleased. But a uniform he would not don.

ARCHITECT, 91 YEARS OLD, DEAD

Cuno Werner Came Here From Germany in 1846.

The funeral of Cuno Werner, 91 years old, who died Wednesday of old age at his home, 8334 South Ninth street, was held Friday from the residence to New Picket Cemetery under the auspices of Hassendeubal Post, G. A. R., of which he was a charter member. He is survived by two daughters and a son.

He was an architect. He came to America from Germany in 1846, and was among the gold-seekers of California in 1849.

BUYS FOOD FOR HIS BRIDE WITH BOGUS CHECKS

Husband of Three Weeks Says He Could Not Find Work in St. Louis.

Bogus checks he used to buy food for his bride of three weeks landed James Morris, 21 years old, in a police station cell Thursday night. His bride, who formerly was Matilda Anderson of Clayton, assured him she would stick to him.

Morris and his wife were employed at the Tesson dairy, near Clayton, he as a driver and she as a maid. They eloped to St. Louis Feb 15 and then returned to the farm, intending to keep their marriage a secret until they could arrange to go to housekeeping.

A farmhand scolded Mrs. Morris one day and she complained to her husband. They then made known their relationship and left the farm. They engaged a room at 1118 North Eighteenth street.

"I had about $40 in the bank then," said Morris, when interviewed in his cell Friday. "I had a hard time finding work and the money went faster than I thought it would. Pretty soon I found myself broke. Hunger was threatening us and the thought of my wife having to go without food made me desperate.

"Knowing that I had no money left in the bank, I wrote two checks, one for $10 and the other for $15. I presented them to J. W. Miller, a grocer at 7633 Delmar boulevard, and asked him to cash the one for $10 and to hold the other. I knew I was doing wrong, but I had to get my wife something to eat. I spent most of the $10 for groceries. I thought I would soon find work and then I could pay Miller.

"I found a position this week and was to have gone to work today, but the detectives arrested me."

WILL ENTERTAIN THE BANKERS

A reception committee composed of one man from each of the 54 banking institutions connected with the St. Louis Clearing House will meet the visiting bankers who attend the twentieth annual convention of the Missouri Bankers' Association, to be held May 18 and 19 at St. Louis. Elaborate arrangements are being made for the entertainment of the delegates and for a publicity campaign to obtain a record-breaking attendance.

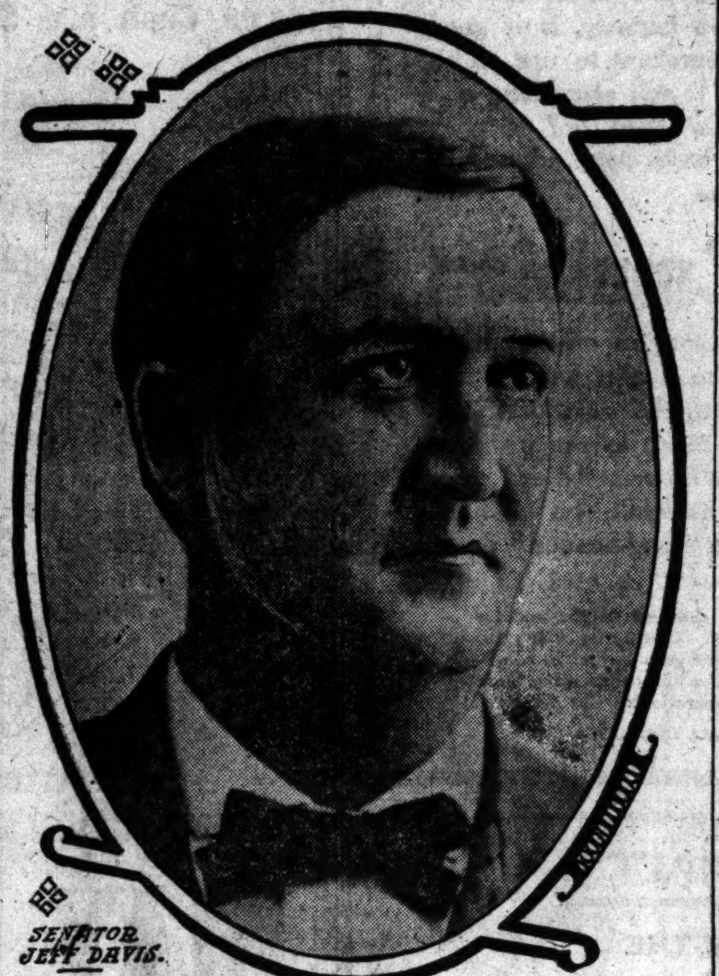
The financiers will be addressed by W. H. Lee on "Examination of Banks by the Clearing House," and L. E. Pierson, president of the American Bankers' Association. Isaac H. Orr has been chosen arbitrator in the discussion of banking laws.

Department of Justice Will Scan Jeff Davis' Senate Speech for "Fee"

Wickersham Takes Notice of Admission of Financial Interest in Bill.

PENAL CODE INVOLVED

Arkansan's Attitude Is Likened to the Burton and Mitchell Cases.



SENATOR JEFF DAVIS.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The Department of Justice has taken official cognizance of the admission of Senator Jeff Davis of Arkansas that he is financially interested in legislation pending before Congress.

Attorney-General Wickersham said today that the statements of the Arkansas Senator and the laws which may apply to his actions as an attorney and as a Senator are being examined in the Department of Justice.

The Attorney-General said he had read the newspaper accounts of Senator Davis' admissions, but had formed no opinion. He examined the sections of the penal code which appear to bear on the Davis case. He declined to express an opinion whether Senator Davis had violated the law, but by his manner confirmed the belief of other attorneys that that the matter is proper subject for inquiry.

The Attorney-General, in discussing the matter referred to the Mitchell and Burton cases in which two United States senators were convicted.

Seem to Fit Penal Code.

The given statement of facts in the Davis case seems to the department to fit the penal code. Mr. Davis testified before a House committee urging the passage of an act which would clear the title of some Arkansas swamp lands in which clients of his had an interest or expected to acquire one. He stated that the clearance of the titles would give him a fee which he had expected as attorney in the case.

The Attorney-General is of the opinion that the initiation of any prosecution of Davis would be in the body to which he belongs. He said that body is best competent to pass on the qualifications of its own members.

It was pointed out to the Attorney-General that the Senate did not act in the Mitchell and Burton cases until the courts had acted. He then said that the Department of Justice was considering the Davis matter.

Davis to Speak in the Senate.

Senator Davis has not yet denounced the press as purveyors of malicious and wicked slanders. He is biding his time. He has promised to enliven the Senate within a day or two and tell the real facts connected with the suggestion that he is to receive a "big fee" for the recovery of 100,000 acres in swamp lands in the eastern section of his own State.

Mr. Davis expected to speak on a question of personal privilege yesterday afternoon, but declined the pleasure because all the time had been set aside for the postal savings banks bill. He let the matter go over until today. As the day will be likewise devoted to the pending measure, it is probable Mr. Davis will wait until tomorrow.

A large proportion of senators think it is a huge joke to find Mr. Davis enmeshed in a scheme to get rich quick and feel more inclined to laugh than take it seriously. Others believe something should be done, but those will be influenced by the old-timers who insist that precedent should be followed in all things.

Even if the Senate desired to act, there is nothing yet on which to take the initiative. The official records are not available for use until printed and there is no basis on which to found a precise opinion concerning the gravity of Mr. Davis' offense.

DEATH TOLL OF AVALANCHE 100; NONE IS SAVED

Report That 10 Were Rescued From Train Buried in Canyon Dissipated.

FLOOD IS THREATENED

Snowslide Only One of Many Disasters in Northwest Recently.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

EVERETT, Wash, March 4.—Rumors that ten persons who had been buried near Scenic at the mouth of the Cascade Tunnel had been found alive were dissipated early this morning and it now is considered certain that the death toll of the avalanche which swept down the side of the mountain will reach 100 and it may be 120.

While the horror of the situation grows, through lack of ability to get definite information, the avalanche is only one of the many disasters which have visited the Northwest in the last few days.

Early in the week more than 30 were killed by a snowslide and the following day the avalanche at Scenic occurred. During the days which followed it is estimated that 30 or more persons lost their lives in smaller slides in the mountains.

The disaster yesterday in Juneau, Alaska, was the third of large proportions which have visited the Northwest country in four days.

Survivors and members of the early relief parties returning from Wellington say that evidences of the power of the avalanche are seen on every hand. The body of Thelma Davis, a 3-year-old baby, was found at the base of a tree bound around with iron pipes and rods torn from the cars by the icy mass.

The snow storm, which started last night and swept down the canyon to Scenic, changed into a drenching rain this morning, increasing the discomfort and danger of the men digging for the bodies.

The trip over the trail from Wellington to Scenic is exceedingly hazardous and Great Northern officials are warning sightseers to stay away. Great masses of snow hang over the bluffs ready to fall without a moment's warning. Avalanches occur frequently and there is great danger of being buried under the snow while climbing the trail.

The city's water supply system is in a bad way and several springs are being used for drinking water. A car load of provisions has been contributed by the town of Garfield. It is estimated that there are about 400 persons in Colfax depending upon the hospitality of citizens.

Weather conditions of the last ten days have been responsible for the loss of about $2,500,000 to various railway companies operating in the Pacific Northwest. The Great Northern is the heaviest loser. The avalanche at Wellington, it is estimated, has cost the company $1,500,000.

CRUNDEN ABLE TO SPEAK AFTER 3 YEARS' SILENCE

Former Librarian Also Reads Now and Improvement Is Regarded Phenomenal.

Frederick Crunden, former Public Librarian, who was stricken four years ago with paralysis, in the last few weeks, it was announced Friday, has made a partial recovery that his physicians consider remarkable. He is at the St. Luke's Hospital.

It was said at the hospital Friday that the patient is able to talk and read. A month ago he was unable to speak and his physicians would not allow him to read.

At the time Mr. Crunden was stricken, three years ago, it was thought that there was no hope for him and he soon lost the power of speech. The paralysis resulted in a complete inability to move and at times he was delirious.

Frank P. Crunden, member of the City Council and a brother of the former librarian, confirmed Friday the report of the recovery.

Since the improvement in his condition, Crunden has renewed his interest in national and civic affairs. He reads the daily papers and a few magazines and is slowly picking up the threads of his old life.

DROPS DEAD IN OFFICE CHAIR AS HE READS MAIL

While preparing to read his mail Friday, H. H. Purcell, 52 years old, general freight agent for the American Refrigerator Transit Co., fell from his chair in his office, 1010 Century Building, and died before medical aid reached him. Heart disease is given as the cause of death.

He is survived by his wife and a married son, and lived at 5243 Fairmount avenue. Permission was given by the Coroner to have the body taken in charge by an undertaker, at the request of Purcell's wife.

At 11:15 a. m. Purcell picked up some mail from his desk and went into an adjoining room. As he attempted to sit down he reeled and fell to the floor. His chief clerk, D. Ocheltree, ran to his assistance and other employes called Drs. Lund, Lewis and [illegible], who have offices in the building. Purcell was dead before they arrived.

Purcell had been in the employ of the company as general freight agent eight years. He was connected with the Gould lines for 20 years, and came to St. Louis from Chicago.

LUCIEN BECKER, ORGANIST, COMING BACK TO ST. LOUIS

Announcement Also Reveals Secret That He Has Married Since Going Away.

Lucien E. Becker, formerly president of the Becker Bros. Conservatory at 3830 Olive street, and prominent in St. Louis musical circles, who disappeared three years ago and whose whereabouts during the greater part of the interval have been unknown to his relatives and friends here, has written from Portland, Ore., that he is coming back.

When he left St. Louis he announced that he was going to his old home in Alsace and would later travel in Europe for a couple of months. It is now known that before sailing he was married in New York to Edith Small, divorced wife of a race-track man of the name of Gill, whose maiden name had been returned to her when she obtained a divorce.

Becker had been associated with his brothers, Camille and Rene, in the conservatory. They are Catholics and he knew that they would not approve of his marriage to a divorcee. That is presumed to have been the reason for his failure to communicate with them.

For some time before Becker went away Mrs. Gill had been conducting Gill's restaurant at 3860 Olive street. She occupied apartments above the restaurant. She is a petite brunette, and pretty. After Becker became acquainted with her he took his meals at the restaurant.

When Becker went away he left with his brothers addresses of different banks and hotels in Europe where he was to receive letters from them. They wrote, but received no answers. A year ago they learned from the London postmaster that he was in Australia. A letter was sent to him there and he answered it. But he gave no reason for his silence and did not divulge his plans.

Recently Camille Becker received another letter from Becker. It was dated at Portland, Ore., and stated that he was living at 226 North Grand avenue there, and for the first time he told of his marriage in New York, but did not state the identity of the woman he married, other than that she was from St. Louis. In a later letter to a friend he gives the name of the woman.

A dispatch from Portland intimates that Becker is expecting an offer as organist at the New Cathedral. Camille Becker is organist of the Cathedral Chapel.

DEMOCRAT RESIGNS TO GIVE REPUBLICANS THE SPOILS

Declares Successful Party Should Manage Industrial School Board and Quits.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 4.—Thomas J. Hogue of Chillicothe, a Democratic member of the Board of Managers of the State Industrial Home for Girls at Chillicothe, sent his resignation to the Governor today.

Hogue was appointed by Gov. Folk and his term would not have expired until Feb. 1, 1911.

Hogue gave the unusual reason for leaving the board that, inasmuch as the State has a Republican Governor, the management of the school should be vested in that party. Up to this time there has been only one Republican on the board, Dr. C. C. Leeper of Braymer.

GIRLS, NICHOLSON OF CULPEPPER IS LOOKING FOR WIFE

He's 21 and No One but a St. Louis Maiden Will Suit Him, He Says.

BUT MUST BE YOUNG

Applicant Should Be Under 20 to Share His 160 Tennessee Acres.

INFORMATION BUREAU
SAY WHERE DO I GO TO GET A WIFE?

If his ticket hadn't required him to take the next northbound train, Shepard Nicholson of Culpepper, Tenn., would still be in St. Louis looking for a wife. He likes St. Louis girls, from what he saw of them in a few hours stay at Union Station, and he has sworn to win a St. Louis girl before he returns to Tennessee.

When he says a St. Louis girl, he means girl. Maidens in the uncertain reaches of 28 to 35 need not waste postage stamps in writing to him at his temporary address, Primrose, Neb. He is 21 and he wants a bride of 17 or 18.

She must have dark hair and fair skin, too. Height and weight are not such important matters, though his tastes in each run to the medium—say 120 pounds and five feet five.

Applies at Information Bureau.

As a husband, young Nicholson is a meritorious proposition, in the opinion of Police Sergeant Meehan, to whom he unfolded his heart's secrets at Union Station Thursday night. He is well dressed in the fashion of his region and his manner of conversation caused the police sergeant to believe him a sincere youth, to whom a young woman might safely intrust her affections if she had no one else to intrust them to.

That he is not a fortune hunter appears from his declaration to Meehan. "The girl doesn't have to have money; I've got 160 acres in Tennessee and enough for both of us."

Nicholson stopped over at the station on his way to visit his brother in Nebraska. He saw a big sign "Information Bureau" and going to the window made no bones about asking for the information he wanted.

"Where do you go to find a wife?" he demanded. Graham Smith, assistant at the bureau, scanned him curiously, then, seeing he meant it, called the police sergeant.

Makes Some Criticisms.

"Aren't there any girls where you came from?" was one of Meehan's first questions.

"Sure there are," replied the young man, "but I like the looks of the St. Louis girls better."

"Do you see any here in the midway you think you'd like?" asked the Sergeant.

"There was one a minute ago," said Nicholson, "but I guess she got on a train. Now that one with the big hat might—but, say, do you suppose thats all her own hair? No, I don't believe she'd do. That one over by the news stand is a little too old and this one coming with the little hand satchel wears glasses. That one with the man carrying her bundle looks pretty except when she laughs, but she laughs all the time. I don't believe I'll try to get acquainted with any of them here."

"I wouldnt advise you to," said Meehan.

Nicholson made the Sergeant promise that if he heard of a girl of suitable qualifications who wanted a husband, he would put her in communication with him. He expects to stay at Primrose several weeks.

WALTHER DECIDES SENATORIAL BALLOTS MUST BE PRESERVED

After a series of demands by Senator Stone's friends for the burning of the ballots cast in the senatorial primary election, their preservation has been approved and authorized by City Counselor Walther.

In a written opinion, furnished at the request of the Election Board, Walther says it is the duty of the board to preserve the ballots until all prosecutions involving charges of fraud at the 1908 election are ended. Four such prosecutions now are pending.

The City Counselor instructs the board that, no matter whether the ballots can be used as evidence or not, the law instructs them to preserve the ballots until the cases are ended, and that the language of the statute is "too plain to admit of any doubt on the question."

HADLEY TO URGE SPECIAL TAXES FOR UNIVERSITY

Governor to Propose Levy of 3 Cents on Every $100 at Alumni Banquet.

At the alumni banquet of the University of Missouri Friday night at the Mercantile Club Gov. Hadley will advocate the levying of a tax of 3 cents on $100 valuation of property in the State for the support of the university. He will be supported by Joseph W. Folk and David R. Francis, thus removing the project from political partisanship.

Gov. Hadley estimated that the total property valuation in the State for taxation will approximate $1,750,000,000, and that the proposed levy upon this sum would give the university about $525,000 next year.

Dr. A. Ross Hill, president of the university, will be one of the speakers. The agitation for a special tax in support of the university grew out of an offer received by him to head the University of Minnesota. Dr. Hill said that if he left Missouri it would not be for the additional salary offered, but because of enlarged opportunities for putting into effect educational plans which have long been dear to him. He won much praise by declining to leave Missouri.

Hair Health

If You Have Scalp or Hair Trouble, Take Advantage of This Offer.

We could not afford to so strongly endorse Rexall "93" Hair Tonic and continue to sell it as we do, if we were not certain that it would do all we claim it will. Should our enthusiasm carry us away, and Rexall "93" Hair Tonic not give entire satisfaction to the users, they would lose faith in us and our statements, and in consequence our business prestige would suffer.

Therefore, when we assure you that if your hair is beginning to unnaturally fall out or if you have any scalp trouble, Rexall "93" Hair Tonic will promptly eradicate dandruff, stimulate hair growth and prevent premature baldness, you may rest assured that we know what we are talking about.

Out of one hundred test cases Rexall "93" Hair Tonic gave entire satisfaction in ninety-three cases. It has been proved that it will grow hair even on bald heads, when, of course, the baldness had not existed for so long a time that the follicles, which are the roots of the hair, had not become absolutely lifeless.

Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is vastly different from other similar preparations. We believe it will do more than any other human agency toward restoring hair growth and hair health. It is not greasy and will not gum the scalp or hair or cause permanent stain. It is as pleasant to use as pure cold water.

Our faith in Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is so strong that we ask you to try it on our positive guarantee that your money will be cheerfully refunded without question or quibble if it does not do as we claim. Certainly we can offer no stronger argument. It comes in two sizes, prices 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain it only at our store,—The Rexall Store. The Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., S. E. ECZEMA ALL OVER CHILD'S BODY

All Red and Blistery—Itched So She Could Not Sleep and Scratched Till She Bled—Many Treatments Failed—Cake of Cuticura Soap and

HALF A BOX OF CUTICURA CURED HER PERFECTLY

"My little girl had eczema and was cured by Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. It first started with sores and blisters and was all over her body. She was just red all over and would scratch until it would bleed. It itched so that she could not sleep. I used different medicines but without effect. I washed her with Cuticura Soap and then applied Cuticura Ointment, which resulted in a perfect cure. I used one cake of Cuticura Soap and half a box of Ointment. Also, as a toilet soap, there is nothing better for pimples. My face was covered with pimples and now it is absolutely free from them since I used Cuticura Soap. So I am never without Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Etienne Barbè, Plaucheville, Avoyelles Parish, La., Oct. 8, '09."

GRIGGS TO GET FIRST TRYOUT AS A CATCHER

O'Connor Will Try Out His Star All-Round Man Behind Bat in Saturday's Game.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

HOUSTON, Tex., March 4.

GRIGGS will have his first real tryout as a catcher tomorrow, when the St. Louis Browns buck the Houston Bank team, known locally as the Buffaloes. O'Connor is strong for his pupil, and will let him receive all three pitchers. These will be Love, Kusel and Graham, each for three innings. The rest of the line up is: Abstein, first base; Truesdale, second base; Hartzell, shortstop; Wallace, third base; Fisher, left field; Hoffman, center field; Demmitt, right field.

The Browns' manager has lent Killifer to the Houston team to catch Saturday's and Sunday's games. Doak Roberts has three likely aspirants for this position signed, but they all failed to show up. So he is borrowing. He says he will do as much for O'Connor some time.

This morning's practice was a sizzler. Nobody dared look at the thermometer to see how hot it was, but it felt like 100. The bevy of fledgelings went through infield practice, pitching practice and the "fungo" hitting along the side holdevers. O'Connor is nursing his pitchers.

Waddell is as hard as nails, thanks to the energetic course of sprouts Harry Howell put him through at Hot Springs. He is the advertised attraction for the Sunday game here.

Jack O'Connor, who believes that spirit and vim are as necessary as seasoned muscles, arose this morning jubilant and sore as an ulcerated tooth. He was full of joy, because of the spirit shown by his men, yesterday, and sore because he worked harder than any other man on the team.

Every man in the string was fighting the bit like a race horse yesterday and when the last infield was called in the players were winded and ready to rest. This infield, the last of three to have a trial, consisted of Devoy on first, Corriden on second and Hetling on third.

O'Connor knocked grounders, line balls and pop flies and Griggs received them when they came back. Corriden, who is a little red-headed chap, is as quick as Wallace and the way he sent 'em down to first was pleasing.

Devoy is cat-like in his activity and seemed the most certain of the trio. He took everything that came his way until near exhaustion. Hetling looks and plays like Barry McCormick, according to O'Connor. His style is something similar to that of Griggs or Lajoie. They used to say that McChesney, the race horse, has a "frictionless stride." Hetling is like that.

To open the day and also the training trip and the season, the new pitchers lined up across the diamond and lobbed them over to the catchers. O'Connor watched them work and slowed them down. Everybody wanted to loosen up and steam a few across. O'Connor caught Rube Waddell, and after a few minutes the husky one shot a straight ball at Jack that pried his hands apart and went on to the fence.

O'Connor arose and announced himself.

When he had done, Rube agreed that such stuff would be needed a plenty later in the season and that he would keep it until then. Harry Howell worked all over the field, and when he was warm all through he tried a few hard ones and they sounded upon Killifer's mitt like stones against a wash boiler. Not a pain nor a sign of last season's ailment can be found in his body and he is in high hopes.

After the pitchers had volleyed awhile, the crew batted through the roll call a dozen times. Nearly all the pitchers, new and old, went into the box and was knocked about variously. Al Schweitzer smote as viciously as in 1908. His legs, which kept him out of the game last year, seem as sturdy as Jack Powell's, which is some legs. Griggs did not have his eye. The day was hot as a St. Louis midsummer, or so it seemed to the players. The sun made the eyes dance and see indistinctly. Griggs fouled off a dozen and sent three new balls over the grand stand. The recruits did the best batting. Devoy sent long low ones to the far outfield and Fisher, who stole 88 bases last year and who looks like he could not steal a hot bag, is a powerful driver.

Fisher, the Heavyweight Can Still Steal Bases With the Best of Them

IT is easy to see how he got to first last year, but how he stole the other bases is a wonder. He weighs 180 pounds and says he weighed 176 all last season. He is not much taller than Hobe Ferris. He gets away from the plate, when he hits, like lightning, and runs like a hundred-yard man—stands high on his toes and pulls his knees up under his chin. If he ever slides into a lightweight baseman there will be a funeral.

O'Connor is much impressed with Allen's throwing. He whips the ball to the corners on a line and lifts the baseman into the air. Killifer, the catcher who met the team here, is impressive. He is about of Pelty's build and size. He would be in line for the job if O'Connor had not decided that Griggs was the man for the place. Griggs is keen on the change. Jack showed him a thing or two yesterday, and making the transformation is not going to be an altogether easy task. Griggs has ways that will not do, and he must change them. When a ball is thrown to him he leans back gracefully to throw it to the pitcher. All right on first, says the manager, but not behind the bat.

"Forward on your toes to catch the runner that is trying to steal."

"All right," says Griggs, "whatever you say goes." And it does go.

Pelty and Abstein furnished most of the noise for the encouragement of the youngsters. The debutantes, like nice children, preferred to be seen more than heard; so the holdovers furnished the talk. Jack Powell, a gifted conversationalist, delivered a long address to Danny Hoffman on the fielder's speed. Jack was hitting fungoes behind the plate and Danny was in center field and it is a deep field on these grounds.

Dode Criss, O, where is he?

The mail man brings no tidings and the telegraph has not penetrated to Blossom Prairie. O'Connor is not worrying. He says all he will have to do is to give him a bat and tell him to go in.

Newman has reported and was permitted to train with the Houston team. He is not overly anxious to "make" the Browns team and probably will go back to Houston for another year.

Jackson, who was drafted from Dallas, has failed to show up.

This, with Olson's absence, leaves the second-base job an open proposition. Hetling would be favorite on the first day's form, though Truesdale would give him a strong contest.

Two more games have been scheduled with Houston, March 9 and March 17. O'Connor declared it would be a shame to let St. Patrick's Day go by without a game, and Schotten, Schweitzer and Kusel agreed with him.

Somebody stole Rube Waddell's hat on the train and he has been wearing a boy's size cap around.

Stremmel and Fisher have hair of exactly the same shade, it is a delicate pinkish burnt ochre.

There is a ladies' orchestra of three pieces in the dining room of the Rice Hotel. The one that plays the big fiddle can make a collection of ball players' autographs if she wishes to.

Three hundred variegated citizens watched the work-out from the grand stand. Houston takes its baseball seriously. Not a cheer, laugh or hiss was heard.

Secretary Lloyd Rickard appeared in uniform, spiked shoes, cap and an 8-pound sweater. He took the outfield and lasted four minutes. He almost caught one fly.

Hoppe Shows How Champion Should Play Billiards

Willie Hoppe and Ora Morningstar will meet in an 800-point 18.2 balk-line billiard match at Charley Peterson's hall Friday. The first block of 400 points will be started at 2:15 p. m. and the second at 8:15 p. m.

This match will bring the exhibition matches of the pair to a close in this city.

Thursday afternoon Hoppe defeated Morningstar at Peterson's, 400 to 228. Thursday night Hoppe scored 400 to Morningstar's 283 points. Both games were at 18.2 balk line. In the afternoon Hoppe played in the form that has gained for him credit for being the greatest billiard player that the world has ever produced. He made one run of 170 without difficulty, counting so rapidly that it was almost impossible to realize that he was playing perfect position on every shot. He averaged 27 11-18.

Hoppe averaged 30 10-13 in the evening game, with a high run of 187. His average would have been even better, but Morningstar left him a number of hard shots. Morningstar's best run was 111, made in the evening game. The contests drew a capacity crowd. Peterson has made arrangements for ladies to witness the game Friday night.

WOLGAST AND JOHNSON TO SHOW HERE THIS MONTH

Ad Wolgast, the new lightweight champion, who defeated Battling Nelson in the fortieth round of their recent fight, will open a week's theatrical engagement at the Standard Theater on March 20. Jack Johnson, heavyweight champion, has been booked by the Standard for the week of March 27. According to Joe Walsh, the Nelson-Wolgast fight pictures, or at least the best rounds, will be shown at the Standard early in April.

EDWARD DILLON QUITS AS TIGER FOOTBALL COACH

COLUMBIA, Mo., March 4.—Edward Dillon has been released from his contract to coach the football team of the University of Missouri next fall.

Dillon gives as his reason for wanting a release the enlargements of his business interests in the East.

The Athletic Committee last night ordered Dillon released from his contract. This leaves the Tiger football team without a coach and a captain.

J. R. Bluck, captain-elect, was suspended from school several days ago. Dillon was elected on the recommendation of Coach W. W. Roper.

OLD SOUTHERN BOXING CLUB PROPERTY SOLD

NEW ORLEANS, March 4.—School boys will romp in the arena once occupied by prize fighters at the historic Southern Athletic Club. The school athletic league Thursday purchased the club building, probably the oldest in the South, for $20,000. In the ring at the Southern, James J. Corbett outboxed Jake Kilrain in such convincing fashion in a limited round contest that his showing led up to his match with John L. Sullivan.

Robison Feels at Ease as FIRST CARDINALS REPORT

Frank Corridon, New Pitcher, Is First Man to Arrive for Training Trip.

STANLEY ROBISON, owner of the Cardinals, and his aggressive leader, Roger Bresnahan, will assemble all their young ball players at the Planters' Hotel on Saturday and Sunday and on Monday evening depart for Little Rock, Ark., to begin a siege of training. Frank Corridon, the veteran pitcher procured in trade in February, is already on hand, being the first player to report.

It is expected that a few of the new men will come in Friday and most of them reach town Saturday. Altogether there should be nearly 40 athletes on hand to take the train South from this city.

Mr. Robison is more at ease as a baseball magnate than he has ever been before. No club owner in the National League has struggled harder to make a winning team than has the St. Louis magnate. Yet, year after year, he had a club that ran along with the trailers and finished absolutely last many times. Now he is beginning to see light ahead. It was a good move when he got Roger Bresnahan to put in command even if it did break up his team for a season, for it will be remembered he had to give away four good men to get the "Duke."

NOW M. Stanley lies back taking things easy and leaves the running of the team entirely to Roger, and it seems Roger is on the way to success, for he has as bright a looking bunch of young athletes to start out this season as any manager could ask for, and though he is not expected to overcome the strong clubs of the league, like the Cubs and Pittsburg, this year, still he seems to have the foundation this time for a genuine ball club.

Corridon, though a veteran in the game, has the enthusiasm of youth and seems well pleased with the change that brought him to St. Louis from the Philadelphia club. He doesn't know why he was traded and says he has never had trouble with the Phillies. He also says he is in better shape to begin work this spring than he has been since he broke into the big league. That was back in the spring of 1903, when he began with the Chicago Cubs. The Cubs opened the season in St. Louis, and Corridon was taken sick and sent to a hospital. He didn't recover in time to get back in the game all that season and the Cubs let him go next year. Now he says he is feeling better than at any time since that illness.

Pitching Staff Strengthened.

ROGER BRESNAHAN seems quite well satisfied with his club. So far as he knows, no player is holding out for more salary and all will report here by Monday morning.

"It was the pitching staff that kept us down so far last season," said Roger. "I think I have strengthened in that department during the winter by procuring the two veterans, Corridon and Willis. Then the young fellows who broke in last year will surely have developed considerably, so the box work on the whole should be much better. Of course we will miss Beebe, but I figure Corridon will take his place and win just as many games. Vic Willis should do even better and Johnny Lush, whom we all know as a clever pitcher, is stronger this year than last and should do well. Now the younger fellows, like Backman, Harmon, Raleigh and Higgins, must have learned much from their experience of last season. Sallee is one of the good left-handers of the game and I think he will take care of himself this year.

"We ought to have a good team on offensive playing. We have plenty of speed and several men who should hit close to the .300 mark. Ellis and Oaks should be a great pair in every way. Koney and Hulswitt will surely hit well. O'Hara is a lively fielder and base runner and if Mowrey comes around in shape he'll be the best third baseman in the League."

Bresnahan Feels Confident of Success Since Pitching Staff Is Strengthened.

BILLIARD NOTES.

For the third time Cross, Meyer and King are tied for first prize in the red ball billiard tournament at the Hauser. The trio were tied at the end of the regular tournament. They played a round, then another, and finally the third round, but each time a tie resulted. Cross made the third tie by defeating King Thursday night, 70 to 59.

Ralph and Bonner clash in the three-cushion billiard tournament match at Pesch's Friday night. Jackson defeated Shay, 25 to 20, Thursday.

Fagan and Compton will clash in the pool tournament match at the Navarre Friday night. Jackson defeated Lewis, 75 to 40, Thursday night.

Hoffman and Graves are scheduled to furnish the Class B three-cushion billiard tournament match at the Grand Friday. Wilson won from Cummings, 30 to 29, Thursday.

BASKET BALL

Judging from the good attendance at every basket ball game played in the last month, the indoor game is fast becoming popular again in St. Louis, and it can be assured that next season this city will have some of the best teams in the country. There are many players here that know the fine points of the game, but the lack of organization has kept them from appearing in many contests. Since the breaking up of the City League last year and the Sunday-school this year, two organizations which contained the best talent, the game declined in its popularity, in spite of the fact that there are still some good independent teams.

At this early date arrangements are being made whereby St. Louis is to have a strong basket ball organization next year. The management of the Louisiana Hall is responsible for the movement, and eight teams have already signified their intention of joining.

The Premiere basket ball team leaves next week for Chicago to compete in the National A. A. U. championships, given under the First Regiment Armory Association. It is the first time St. Louis has been represented in a national affair since the World's Fair, in 1904, when the team representing the M. A. C. finished third against the best teams in the country. The expenses of the Premieres are already fully taken care of by benefit games which have been played at the Louisiana Hall within the last two weeks.

The players that will go to Chicago will be: Reber, Roe, Hardin, Riley, McKnight, Manager Allison, with Meyers and Jones, substitutes.

The Premieres will show twice more before leaving. They meet the Pilgrim Congregationals Saturday night in the feature game of a double header, while the Grace Church team and the Premiere Reserves clash in the pre-li

WRAY'S COLUMN.

STANLEY ROBISON and Roger Bresnahan are here in advance of the arrival of the various Cardinals to confer regarding the club's spring campaign. But the truth is that the team does not need any conferences, the way it now stands. It will do, and if it does not do well many fans will entertain a large surprise at the end of the season.

Roger never wrought so well as when he turned the deal with Cincinnati and it is largely due to this happy business affair that the confidence of the St. Louis public has gone with the "duke."

Warning: New York and Philadelphia please get out of the road, or be run over.

Curious fan—M. Stanley Robison is still a firm believer in protection. Unless a barber assists him, there is still a very slight chance of his being able to acquire pneumonia.

They say—at least some of them say—that pool is more scientific than billiards. But that was before watching Willie Hoppe play. This young man's work is a cross between Melba's singing and Herbert's cello playing. Just a symphony, that's all.

Isn't This Stimulating?

JUST to show that he is really on the water wagon, Rube Waddell made the train porter a present of four quarts of gin, while en route to Texas. You can easily see where Rube loses half of his GINger.

Remember a gentleman named Krause, who pitched for the Philadelphia Americans, until he arrived at St. Louis? The Browns ruined his winning streak here last year, and you can wear this tip in your hat—that there will not be another winning episode like it next season. Krause finished as if the world were coming to an end, last year, and it is doubtful if Connie Mack's good team will find him a first-class pitcher this season. Everybody wondered what he had last year, even when he was getting away with his games.

"Blue, Sleeves" Harper, who worked so remarkably for the Cardinals some years ago, was another Krause. Harper got away with some remarkable games and had a dandy season. Even his catchers couldn't see what he had, but he won the games and his club had to give him credit for the victories. Along came the American League club in St. Louis and filched him; and thereafter Harper settled back into his own. He had a weak year and thereafter declined steadily until he went out of the big leagues.

Krause promises to repeat this history, unless he is able to show more than he did at the close of last year. His strong point was his control—and he could not even keep that toward the end.

Why Should He?

AD WOLGAST is up against the old proposition of "to fight or get the money" and you know how that always ends. Many hasty persons criticize these prize fighters for dallying with the theatrical end of the game; but, after all, it is doubtful if any of us, placed in the same situation, would do any differently. Imagine being brought out of the grass of a meal ticket with hall room trimmings, and introduced to $15,000 a year. Is there any doubt in your mind, dear sir, as to what course you would pursue?

Here is the festive Wolgast being criticized because he will not come right back and fight his head off against Murphy, Moran, Nelson and other aspirants for his money-earning powers. Wolgast refuses to even talk about the matter, for the present, and if he did otherwise he ought to have his head examined. For four years Wolgast has been beating the railroads by riding in boxcars and stealing hours from the downy feathers in order that he might train to beat some unknown wight who, perchance, could furnish him with a meal ticket by losing. He has risked his health, his time, his labor, his future and such money as he may have been able from time to time to raise, in support of this suppositious idea that he could box. And now that he has made good they want him to relinquish the fruits of victory.

Go to it, Ad! Get all the money you can, legitimately. And rest assured that the gentlemen who criticize you for so doing would get more in your place, if they could.

Oh You Willie!

WHATEVER Willie Keeler decides to do regarding the offer of Johnny McGraw to give him a berth with the Giants, it was still a fine thing of Muggsy to remember his old Baltimore pal in his hour of need. No one believes that McGraw asked Keeler to accept a position on his team from belief that the once great little player would help his baseball club. Muggsy's offer was unquestionably due to a spirit of chivalry and friendship, too seldom seen on the baseball sward. Willie doesn't know whether he will accept McGraw's offer or not. But it is almost a certainty that he will refuse. For Willie has just as much native chivalry about him as has McGraw, and he is too honest a man to take $5000 a year that he doesn't need, just because a friend thinks of old times.

Manager McGard Disciplines Pitcher "Phenom" Jones
DRAWBRIDGE, KY., Mar. 4.—Relations between Manager McGard, of the Purple Sox, and Pitcher "Phenom" Jones, who after making a good showing in minor-league work last season was selected to help support "Three-finger" Mannie, became very much strained to-day, when the big boss had things to say about the way the youngster was showing up in the workouts.
The affair is shrouded in mystery; for after the practice McGard and young Jones lagged behind on the field, and later appeared at the hotel with their faces decidedly bruised, but both looking happy.
"It isn't anybody's business, that I can see," remarked Manager McGard, in explanation. "'Phenom' and I merely strolled up from the grounds together. As for the cuts on my face, I fell against a threshing machine. I don't know how he got his."
Later he added: "You might give him a little boost in your paper. He's working well, and he's got the fighting spirit that wins games."
The whole truth of the matter is set forth in "His Big-League Debut"—a corking story of baseball in the making, complete in the April issue of People's Ideal Fiction Magazine, on sale NOW, fifteen cents a copy. This is only the first story of a series dealing with "Phenom" Jones. One of the stories will appear complete in every number, throughout the season. Don't miss them.

Post-Dispatch's Complete Daily Record of Markets and Finance

N. Y. STOCKS IRREGULAR AT THE OPENING

Market Develops Strength in the First Half Hour's Trading; London Heavy.

NEW YORK, March 4, 12:30 p. m.—Wall street evidently anticipates a favorable decision by the Supreme Court in the American Tobacco Trust case, because the common stock of this corporation was advanced 10 points on the curb market, while the preferred stock gained nearly 3 points on the Stock Exchange.

Wisconsin Central also had a sharp rise, moving up 4 points above its opening. The rest of the list, especially the rails, moved very sluggishly, but generally in an upward direction. Under the leadership of the copper stocks all the industrials were advanced. Consolidated Gas and Lead gained ¼ each, Anaconda and Laclede Gas ⅛ each, Smelting ¾ and Steel common 1 point.

In the rails division B. & O. receded ⅛, Pennsylvania ¼ and St. Paul ⅝. B. R. T., and Rock Island advanced ⅛ each, Atchison, Erie, N. Y. Central and Northern Pacific ¼ each, M. K. & T. ⅜ and Reading ½.

Canadian Pacific, C. & O., Great Northern, Mo. Pacific, the Wabash Stocks and the Harriman Pacifics were unchanged.

Trading was principally confined to a few of the leading issues, and was much under normal, the total sales to noon amounting to only 253,600 shares.

Irregular price movements featured the initial trading on the stock market today. Most of the leading rail issues opened at losses, while all the prominent industrial stocks were higher. Notwithstanding labor troubles on the Baltimore & Ohio, that security opened a small fraction above its close. The early trading was very dull, except moderate transactions in Reading, Steel and the Copper stocks.

In the industrials Smelting and Colorado Fuel gained ⅛ each, Utah Copper ¼, Anaconda ⅜, Amalgamated ½, and Consolidated Gas ¾. Steel common opened simultaneously between ¼ off to parity.

In the railway list Great Northern, N. Y. Central, Northern Pacific and Southern Pacific declined ⅛ each, Missouri Pacific and M., K. & T. ¼ each, Erie ⅜, Rock Island ⅝, and K. C. Southern 1 point.

Union Pacific advanced ⅛, and Pennsylvania ¼. B. R. T., C. & O., St. Paul and Reading were unchanged.

Market changes in the first half-hour's trading were chiefly in the direction of higher levels. Rock Island, New York Central, Atchison and the Harriman Pacifics gained a small fraction, and Reading was sent to 169, an advance of ¾ point.

The industrials were also active, and Steel common and the copper stocks were active. Laclede Gas and Steel common advanced ½ each, and Amalgamated, Smelting and Utah ¾ each.

Outside of Reading, which was very active, there was scarcely anything doing in the rails section of the market.

American securities in London were heavy and mostly below parity.

DETAILED REPORT OF DAY'S TRADING ON WALL STREET

NEW YORK, March 4.—Prices of stocks moved within a narrow range with the opening dealings today. The mixed gains and losses reflected a tone of hesitation in the speculation. The copper industrials were firm. National Railways of Mexico first preferred declined 1¼.

The market took an upward turn, a brisk demand arising for Reading, United States Steel and the Copper stocks. Railroad stocks lagged in the movement, and when realizing began, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, New York Central and St. Paul sold fractionally below yesterday's closing. Reading lost its rise of a point, and there was little left of a similar gain in American Smelting and an ¾ in Amalgamated Copper. Lackawanna broke 10 points; American Steel Foundries 1¼, and Pullman 1¼.

Strength in specialties had a moderate sympathetic effect on the general list, which rose to the best prices. American Tobacco preferred gained 4, American Ice 2½, Utah Copper 2¼, Amalgamated Copper and Wisconsin Central 2, St. Louis & San Francisco second preferred 1¼ and Anaconda, General Electric and Western Union 1. Bonds were irregular.

Leading stocks were quiet, but there was increasing interest shown in the minor issues, which continued to advance. Wisconsin Central got up 4¼. Reading second preferred 3 and Federal Mining preferred 1¼. The common stock sold at 53, compared with the previous sale at 82 in November last.

Dullness was the principal characteristic of the market, with a drooping tendency. Colorado & Southern first preferred advanced 1, and Wells-Fargo Express 2.

ST. LOUIS MONEY MARKET.

There is a considerable supply of funds evident in the local market and the week has passed with somewhat lower quotations than were previously ruling. The probabilities are that the near future will see no important changes, unless the manufacturing and industrial exigencies should increase. Like most of the other inland money markets St. Louis has not worked above the 5 per cent average during the past week. In fact, 4½ per cent has been the rate. Commercial paper has been fairly active, but choice names are scarce.

TRANSACTIONS ON THE STOCK MART ONLY MODERATE

Changes in Quotations Are Unimportant; Railways Preferred Is Lower.

Transactions at the forenoon session of the St. Louis Stock Exchange Friday were in moderate volume only. There was no feature to the trading. Railways preferred was ¼ point lower than on Thursday, and the Traction bonds and the common stock were inactive.

Alton-Granite 5s, Laclede Gas 5s and Bank of Commerce were unchanged.

Quotations in the miscellaneous list were about the same as have obtained during the current week.

Yearlings	3 00@3 50
Vealers	5 00@8 00

HOGS—The market opened active and 5@10c higher than it closed yesterday and fully as good or possibly a little better than yesterday morning. One load of choice heavy hogs topped the market at $10, which is the same as on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, and as high as was ever known on this market. The bulk of the good hogs sold from $9.70 to $9.90. Packers were fair buyers, but the main support of the market was the shippers and butchers. The market closed strong and with a good clearance. Pigs and lights showed good improvement and none was left when the market closed.

SHEEP—The sheep trade was quiet from the fact that there were but few on sale. One load of clipped Western lambs sold at $8.50, which is the highest price ever paid in the West for clipped lambs on this or any other market. Buyers wanted several times the number on sale. Wool lambs are selling up to $9.25, and mutton sheep $7.00.

HORSES AND MULES—The horse market was rather quiet and inactive all day. Most all offerings in first hands were disposed of at the close of the auction yesterday. Dealers reported trade light. Fresh receipts for the day approximated 50 head. The mule market was quiet throughout the day. Trade was light, both out of first hands and with the dealers. Fresh receipts for the day approximated 50 head.

Time money was extremely dull, and a shade easier in tone, due to lack of demand by stock commission houses. Rates were 3¼ per cent for 60 days, 3½@3¾ per cent for 90 days, 3¾ per cent for four months, 3¾@4 per cent for five and six months.

BOSTON, March 4.—The striking feature in money is the ease with which March 1 requirements were financed. There was not even a ripple in the money market, either in New York or here, as a result of interest and dividend payments. Surely the condition of the money market can make no pretense to anything but a state of plethora somewhat near to that which obtained at this time last year.

On call, money rules from 3 to 4 per cent. Time money is easy at 3½ to 3¾ per cent.

METAL MARKETS.

NEW YORK, March 4.—The Metal Exchange quotes copper market firmer. Spot, $13.10 to $13.30. March and April, $13.10 to $13.35.

Tin market steady. Spot, $32.52½ to $32.82½; March, $32.40 to $32.67½; April, $32.50 to $32.80.

Beet opened firm, but is now quiet; March, 14s 4½d; April, 14s 4½d; May, 14s 4½d.

Local refined sugars are quoted as follows: Warner and Federal companies quote 5.25c, less 1 per cent, for standard granulated. American and Arbuckle Bros. quote 5.15c. Howell Co. has withdrawn from the market and is taking no business.

WHEAT NARROW, BUT UNSETTLED IN TONE

Bear Sentiment Continues General, but Frequent Rallies Are Caused by Short Covering.

The weak tone that has prevailed much of the week was more or less apparent Friday in the local wheat market. The recent heavy liquidation left an unsettled condition and the consequent lessening of the pressure caused several nervous rallies and advances during the current session. Prices each time sagged back, however, and during a greater part of the day ruled easy at slight net losses.

The opening was at a reaction from the weak conditions, the market having become oversold. Covering among the shorts were encouraged by the relatively steady manner in which the Liverpool market responded to the heavy Argentine exports and the previous decline in America. Shipments from the South American country were 4,184,000 bu, and advices from there regarding supplies and general conditions were bearish. This was offset abroad, however, by the firm spot conditions and Liverpool closed ⅛d higher to ¼d lower.

Prices advanced quite spiritedly at the start, but the general bear sentiment in the pit soon made itself felt. The many favorable crop advices and denials of damage which came from all parts of the belt removed the force from the threatened scare, and encouraged selling. Receipts were heavy, and the cash demand slow. If Snow's figures are authentic, the Government report of next Tuesday is expected to be a bearish document, and the influence of this factor also was felt in the pit.

Prices moved in an extremely nervous and irregular manner all morning. Toward noon they were at slightly lower net levels.

RAILROAD NEWS AND GOSSIP

The Erie Railroad has issued a very encouraging statement for January, gross revenue having increased $379,000 and operating income fully $200,000.

NEW YORK, March 4.—The following railroad earnings were reported:

Wabash—Fourth week of February, $524,091, increase $34,670; from July 1 $19,375,[illegible], increase $2,165,490; month of February $2,173,798, increase $408,690.

Ann Arbor—Third week of February $40,195, increase $12,011; from July 1 $1,335,933, increase $99,004.

Detroit, Toledo & Ironton—Third week of February $29,011, increase $7833; from July 1 $1,032,850, decrease $13,547.

BOND MARKET.

In so far as the average price of 25 standard railroads is able to indicate anything, the unmistakable condition of the bond market is quiescence. Compared with a month ago, the average of 92.975 is practically three-quarters of a point lower, and about on the level prevailing at the end of last year.

The trading in these strictly high-grade issues for a month back has been without incident. From day to day the transactions have been pretty well spread over the list and whatever changes are noted are but fractional and without any significance except that they show the public bond market to be practically in that condition known as a "traders' market." Sales over the board of these securities represent buying and selling operations of a somewhat different character than those consummated in the private bond houses.

ARE YOU A ROLLER?

THIS does not refer to any peculiar religious belief, nor to the rolling gate some persons acquire after devotion to spirituous, vinous or malt liquors. Only those ladies who are rollers may enter the precincts of style this season. To be continued in that always bright and informative Home Section of the Sunday Post-Dispatch.

BEFORE you decorate your home this spring see the Sunday Post-Dispatch Home Section's tips on styles of wall paper and furniture. The new designs make borders of roses of your rooms and the borders run riotously all around the walls in fashions never before attempted by really artistic borders.

WHO is the most photographed girl in America? If we should substitute man for girl you would be ready with an answer, but there is a girl who has had d. r. f. beaten to a pulp. She has been photographed 10,000 times and she stood for days in front of cameras and is probably known to more persons than any other woman in the country. Solution in the next Sunday Post-Dispatch Magazine.

SHE is 20 years old and 6 feet tall. She can swim, box, play ball, craps and pool. She is a carpenter and plumber. She toted a gun and fought tramps while check clerk in Arkansas. She is an artists' model. She tells her story with pictures in the next Sunday Post-Dispatch Magazine.

SHE—this is another one—calls shop girls and stenographers to attention that she may show you how to escape the daily grind, get fresh air and sunshine and wealth and a farm all your own. You will yield to her enthusiasm when you hear her talk of the ease with which woman can make herself independent and own a farm all her own.

JAMES LEDFORD IS FREED BY ORDER OF STATE'S ATTORNEY

No Evidence Found to Connect Him With Death of Man Kicked by a Mule.

James Ledford's release from the Belleville Jail was ordered Friday by State's Attorney Tecklenburg, no evidence having been found to connect him with the sudden death of his former employer, George Wiskamp.

The coroner's verdict, rendered last November, was that Wiskamp was killed by a mule's kick. Reports that a blow on the head had caused death were recently circulated and a warrant was issued in order to hold Ledford until an investigation was made.

Assistant State's Attorney Walcott said Friday that his inquiries had resulted in exonerating Ledford.

BLACK HAND MEN SHOOT POLICEMEN; ONE VICTIM DYING

Italians Open Fire on Patrolmen Without Warning; Assailant Wounded.

FIGHTS DESPITE INJURY

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 4.—John Wren and Patrick Quinn, policemen, were shot early this morning by two Italians, supposed to be members of a black hand organization.

Wren, who was shot in the abdomen, is said to be dying at the hospital.

Quinn's wound, in his leg, is not serious. The policemen, who saw the Italians acting suspiciously at Chicago avenue and Townsend street, started toward them, when the Italians turned suddenly and opened fire.

The policemen returned the fire, wounding one of the Italians, though both escaped.

Fought While Wounded.

More than fifty detectives searched the Italian colony on the North Side for the men and the arrest of every Italian of questionable character in the district is expected.

Quinn is 29 years old and married. Wren is 39 years old and married. Both were in plain clothes.

More than twenty-five shots were fired in the battle. Detective Wren fought as he sat on the sidewalk, suffering from his wounds.

Quinn and Wren had been detailed for a month to patrol the streets in the North Side Italian colony because of many murders, bomb outrages and other crimes in that district. They had orders to look out for all suspicious characters.

The officers were walking west in Chicago avenue. They had reached Townsend street, the dividing line between "Smoky Hollow" and "Little Hell," when they saw the Italians.

Firing Begins With Chase.

The detectives crossed the street and the three men started south in Townsend street, one of the darkest streets in the city.

"Stop," the officers commanded. Almost instantly the men drew revolvers and started shooting at the policemen. The officers returned the fire and a running battle ensued.

Wren threw up his hands and shouted that he was shot and fell to the sidewalk. He, however, retained possession of his revolver and fired as he sat with his back against a garbage box.

Quinn continued the chase. He received a bullet in the right leg and also fell.

The fugitives escaped into Milton avenue, or Gault court, the heart of North Side Italian colony, and where the headquarters of the black hand are believed to be.

Chief of Police Steward ordered every Italian detective in the department to take up the search and additional men were sent from adjoining stations.

MR. GOEBBELS TALKS.

"I wanted the controlling interest in the St. Louis House Furnishing Co., as I had certain business ideas which I felt sure would be of benefit to the quick growth of our establishment," said Mr. Goebbels, in explaining the cause of his quick determination to pay his former partner, Mr. P. J. Farrington, $68,000 for his interest. "I paid cash for my partner's interest. The money was borrowed from the bank upon my 60-day note. Our stock invoiced $168,752.00—so you see I didn't pay too much. The only thing bothering me now is—will I be ready with $68,000 in 60 days? If the people of St. Louis and vicinity are with me, I'll say yes. It the people appreciate honest bargains, I'll raise $100,000. I'm going to give them the biggest bargain feast they ever had. Sunday's Post-Dispatch will have an advertisement wherein I have quoted prices which I defy anyone to equal. A stock unequalled for careful selection including the New Spring and Summer Home Furnishings which have just been unpacked. Every article is offered at 60c on the dollar. I want to make a clean sweep and start with an entire new stock. Now, if the good people of St. Louis will believe that I really am sacrificing goods—if they will take the time to investigate the bargains I advertise, I repeat that this sale will go down in history as the biggest genuine value-giving opportunity ever offered."

"Everybody knows the terms, '$1.00 down and $1.00 each week,' originated with our firm. We cannot, even in a sale of this kind, deviate from the old motto, so we shall, to all reliable people, sell goods during the sale on these terms if desired.

"In conjunction with this big Furniture sale, Mr. E. B. Holland, the well-known clothing man, manager for the St. Louis Clothing Co., has agreed to co-operate with me and has made wonderful reductions in the selling price of his big stock of high-grade Suits and Overcoats for Men, Youths, Boys and Children. The St. Louis Clothing Co. occupies the store adjoining ours, 906 Franklin avenue, and have established an enviable reputation through the class of goods they carry and their easy credit plan. During this sale they will stick to our original terms of '$1.00 each week.' Among the well-known brands of clothing sold by Mr. Holland is the 'Alco' make, which is known from Maine to California, as the best ready-to-wear clothing in America."

The Post-Dispatch is the only evening newspaper in St. Louis that receives or publishes news gathered by the Associated Press.

CIVIC LEAGUE TO ELECT HEAD

Nominating Committee Meets to Name Candidates.

The Nominating Committee of the Civic League met at noon Friday to select a new president, Joseph L. Hornsby, incumbent, having declined re-election. Harvey L. Christie is chairman of the Nominating Committee.

Christie said the report of the Nominating Committee would be withheld until the league meets Tuesday night to elect the officers.

This Cures Tobacco Habit

The following formula conquers the tobacco habit in any form so easily that it makes you wonder how you ever enjoyed it. Take this formula to Wolff-Wilson drug store and ask for Tablet Pulsatilo Compound No. 3344. It should cost about 90c or $1.00, including postage. Formula: P. E. Pulsatillo, 5¾ gr.; P. E. Valerian, 42 gr.; P. E. Gelsemium, 5¼ gr.; P. E. Gentian, 20 gr.; Powd. Golden Seal, 40 gr.; Mathyl Salicylate, 21 min.; Menthol, 2-5 gr.; Gluside, 21-50 gr.; Adhesive and base, q. s. Take as directed. This formula has over 3000 cures to its credit. It changes the taste for tobacco completely. • • •

NO MORE RAW RECRUITS TO BE TAKEN INTO THE ARMY

Only Discharged Soldiers Wishing to Re-Enlist Will Be Considered.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—At least one of President Taft's promises to the country has been kept, but it was a promise with which Congress had nothing to do. It was the reduction of the standard strength of the army.

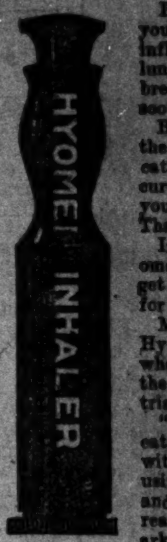
President Taft while at Beverley last summer stated that he would have the personnel strength of the army reduced to 80,000 and maintained at that figure during peace. He has done so. The present strength of the army is something over 75,000 and orders have been issued to all stations that recruiting must cease and that only discharged soldiers desiring to re-enlist will be accepted.

During the Spanish and the Philippine insurrection following and still later the occupation of Cuba, kept the strength of the army up to about 100,000 men.

This strength was not maintained fully after the last occupation of Cuba and it was allowed to go down until the army numbered something like 90,000 men.

The general reduction to meet the President's demand was made in all arrangements of the service, but principally in the field artillery and infantry.

Catarrh Must Go and Hawking and Snuffling Too.



This little Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) inhaler is made of hard rubber and can easily be carried in pocket or purse. It will last a lifetime.

This is absorbed by the antiseptic gauze within and now you are ready to breathe it in over the germ infested membrane where it will speedily begin its work of killing catarrh germs. Hyomei is made of Australian eucalyptol combined with other antiseptics and is very pleasant to breathe.

It is guaranteed to cure catarrh, bronchitis, sore throat, croup, coughs and colds or money back. It cleans out a stuffed up head in two minutes.

Sold by druggists everywhere. Complete outfit including inhaler and one bottle of Hyomei, $1.00. And remember that extra bottles if afterward needed cost only 50c.

Breathe Hyomei, that's all you need to do, it goes over the inflamed membrane into the lungs along with the air you breathe, kills the germs and soothes the membrane.

Breathe Hyomei because it is the only sensible way to cure catarrh. Stomach dosing never cured catarrh and never will, you've got to kill the germs. That's what Hyomei does.

If you already own an Hyomei pocket inhaler, you can get a bottle of Hyomei (liquid) for 50 cents at druggists.

Mail orders filled by Booth's Hyomei Co., Buffalo, N. Y., who will send any reader of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch a trial bottle free of charge.

"I have tried almost every catarrh cure on the market without benefit. Have been using Hyomei for one week, and feel like a new man already."—W. V. Goode, Newark, O., June 21, 1909.

This Clothing Is in Our Way—We Must Be Rid of It Quickly—Prices Are Forced Down to the Lowest Notch

In the first place, the contractors installing our new fixtures throughout our first and third floors are pressing us harder every day for the space, greatly decreased though it is, now used for the display of this clothing. Secondly, the new Spring stocks are arriving in great quantities daily, and we can't find sufficient room for them. Do you wonder then that, hedged in on all sides, we announce these remarkable "plunges" in prices for tomorrow's and next week's selling! This is mighty good clothing, and those men who will buy it now to wear next fall, if their present needs are filled, will be making the "judicious buys" of a lifetime. There are also light weights for this Spring's wear.
